German Armored Force Reduced to Half Its Original Striking Strength Is Trying To Drive English from Area between It and the Narrow Lanes of Escape; Nazis Claim To Have Captured 3,000

Russian Armies Try To Upset Offensive Plans of Germans in Northwest Area

By EDWARD KENNEDY
CAIRO, June 2 (AP)—The Libyan battle of destruction raged on with great violence today around two thin gaps in the desert Ain El Gazala-Bir Hacheim line, with the dwindling tanks of the Axis' African Corps lashing out in a supreme effort to split the British fortified positions.

Already having lost some 260 tanks, or half their original striking strength, the sizeable German armored forces still remaining east of the semi-fortified line had been reorganized and were trying to drive out the British forces stationed between them and the narrow lanes of escape, which are fifteen miles apart.

Another body of the Nazi mechanized forces, which for the last seventy-two hours has moved westward—and rearward—through the two gaps, was reported to have pushed to a position twenty miles west of the line, where it was regrouping with the Axis forces previously there.

Heavy Losses Suffered
The Eighth Army of General Sir Claude Auchinleck, composed of Britons, South Africans, Indians and Free French, had suffered severe losses, too. But it had given more than it had taken in punishment from the three armored and two mechanized divisions which German Marshal Erwin Rommel used in his vain attempt to seize Tobruk.

The Germans claimed annihilation of a British unit and the capture of 3,000 prisoners, including a brigadier. The Italians spoke vaguely of a "pincer movement" near El Ualeb, in the vicinity of the German gaps, where, they said, British resistance was broken and 2,000 prisoners taken.

The British said the American "General Grant" tank, armed with a 75-mm. gun firing high explosives and anti-personnel shells, plus a 37-mm. anti-tank weapon and a machine-gun, was being used with great success. This is the United States Army's M-3 medium tank, a twenty-eight-ton land cruiser now getting its first battle-field test.

It has what it takes in the desert, the British say—fire power capable of knocking out the other fellow's tanks.

"The enemy succeeded in withdrawing many of its tanks and much transport" through two gaps he blasted in British mine fields laid out for fifty miles between coastal Ain El Gazala and the odorous waterhole of Bir Hacheim at the southern extremity of the main British positions, Auchinleck said in a communique.

"A large number of his tanks and many motor transport vehicles, however, remain on the wrong side of this barrier. These are still being ceaselessly harried and destroyed."

O'Connor Submits Plans for Rally Of State Women

Would Be for Purposes of "Sounding Out" Various Organizations

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 2 (AP)—Plans for a rally of Maryland women to discuss their possible future assignment to jobs in war factories was submitted to the War Manpower Commission today Governor O'Connor, acting as Chairman of the State Labor Victory Board.

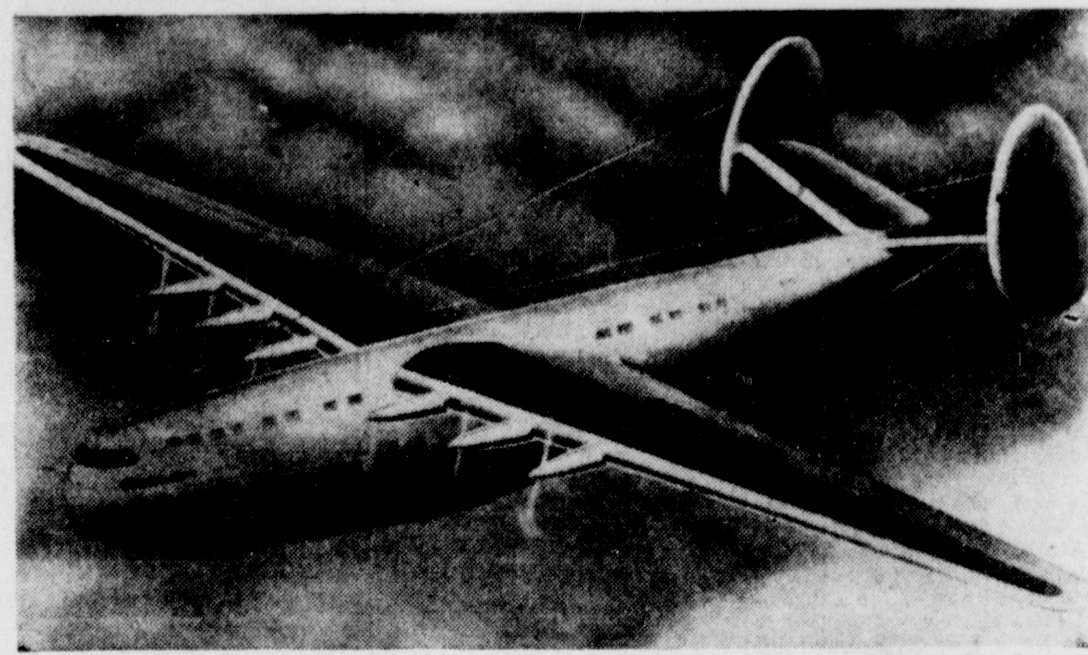

O'Connor informed Paul V. McNutt, Manpower Commission chairman, the LVB wants to stage the rally to "sound out" representatives of numerous state women's organizations on production problems directly affecting them.

McNutt also was invited to designate a Manpower Commission spokesman to address the meeting which would be conducted by state officials and LVB members. O'Connor suggested the manpower spokesman could describe "exactly what the federal government expects of women workers in the future."

The meeting, if held, would be the first "women in industry" rally conducted by any state, O'Connor reported. The women would be asked to submit their views on their possible installation as defense workers, O'Connor said, while labor officials hoped to outline production problems, both current and future, in which women can be expected to be asked to take a hand.

WORLD'S LARGEST FLYING SHIP WINS DESIGN AWARD

This is the first picture released of Glenn L. Martin's design for a 250,000 pound flying ship. It was for this design that Glenn L. Martin won the American design award. The new ship will be able to carry 102 passengers, 80 lbs. of luggage for each passenger, plus 25,000 pounds of mail and cargo to London in thirteen hours.

"Win the War" Stamps To Be Issued July 4

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—A new three-cent postage stamp, with the inscription "Win the War," will be issued on July 4. Postmaster General Walker announced today.

The central motive will be an American eagle with its wings outstretched to form a large V. Thirteen stars will encircle the eagle, while the "Win the War" motto will appear in a band across it.

The first day sale will be on July 4 at the Washington post-office.

Hooper's Island To Be Researched For Lewis Child

Renewed Effort Will Be Made To Find Boy Missing Since Saturday

CAMBRIDGE, Md., June 2 (AP)—Corp. C. C. Serman and Trooper T. A. Short of the state police said tonight they had covered the entire Bay channel near Hooper's Island today without result in the hunt for 2½-year-old Benjamin Lewis, Jr., of Baltimore, missing from the home of his grandparents since Saturday night.

The state officers, planning to continue the search until the child or his body is found, said an effort would be made tomorrow to enlist a great searching party to retrace every bit of the island and nearby waters where the boy was last seen.

State police boats, federal game department patrol boats, private craft will be pressed into service, along with boy scouts, residents of the islands, volunteers from Cambridge, as well as county and state officers.

The boy's father, Benjamin Lewis, Baltimore defense worker, was near exhaustion tonight after having gone without sleep since Friday night.

"There isn't a musty house or a place on the marshes that we haven't looked into or poked a stick into," he said, adding that he and friends had even gone to a wooded section ten miles from the scene on a chance that the youngster had wandered there.

The father said the boy was playing with his brother and a sister in the grandparents' yard, when the older boy and the girl went "down the road to get a haircut."

Young Benjamin wanted to go along, he said, but was told he had better stay home.

Large Piece of East China Is Threatened by Pincer Movement; Defenders Resisting

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, June 2 (AP)—Fierce fighting raged on three fronts in China today, as the Japanese started two new offensives and continued to make progress in the third through the coastal province of Chekiang.

Suddenly assuming the nature of a real threat, a Japanese thrust from Nanchang in Kiangsi province, which adjoins Chekiang on the West, was aimed South and East along the Kiangsi-Chekiang railway and at a possible junction with the columns coming from the East. With two claws the Japanese thus were attempting to pinch off a large piece of Eastern China.

Chinese Resist Stubbornly
Also menacing was the Northward Japanese drive from the Canton area in the South China province of Kwangtung. This was following the Canton-Hakow railway, with another column driving through the mountains country East of the railway. (Domei reported the latter column had captured Tsungia, fifty miles Northeast of Canton, and had continued to advance to the North and Northeast.)

Along the railway the invaders were reported approaching Hongkong.

Chinese troops resisted stubbornly and inflicted heavy casualties everywhere, but scored their chief success in the Chekiang theater as they closed in on the elevated flanks of the Japanese and recaptured five towns.

The Chinese communique said these were Showchang, twenty-five miles Northwest of Kihwa, the provincial capital which they have lost. Yungkuang, thirty-five miles Southeast of Kihwa, and Paisapu and Kengluochun, points South of Showchang. A spokesman listed Shakhichen, North of Showchang, also as having been retaken.

Activity on Burma Road
But the Japanese were admitted to be within ten miles of Chuhsien, forty-five miles west of Kihwa, and apparently one of the main Japanese objectives. Ever since Tokyo was bombed the Japanese have suspected this place of being used as an air base. They bombed it repeatedly.

WPB To Control All U. S. Imports

Foreign Ships Will Be Forced To Carry Essential Cargoes

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—The War Production Board tonight announced it would take control on July 2 over all imports into the United States, compelling foreign vessels to give preference to war-essential cargoes rather than shipments transported primarily for profit.

Among civilian commodities classified as least essential imports, which would be affected by the action, were coffee, cocoa, bananas and beef.

WPB spokesmen said the action taken in a complete revision of previous import control orders would establish a priority system on shipping space for imports through controls over purchases in this country.

Some Not In Pool
Heretofore, controls have been exercised by the war shipping administration through the maritime pool of the United Nations. However, some countries—notably in the Western Hemisphere, Argentina and (Continued on Page 12, Col. 8.)

Deportation Warrant Issued for Bridges

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2 (AP)—Harry Bridges, West Coast CIO leader, surrendered to the immigration authorities today on a warrant ordering his deportation to Australia. A few hours later he was freed under a $3,000 bond allowed after a writ of habeas corpus had been issued.

United States Attorney General Francis Biddle issued the deportation warrant on the grounds Bridges was a Communist.

U. S. and China Sign Lease-Lend Agreement

Provides for Continued Reciprocal Aid in War against the Axis

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—The United States and China signed a Lease-Lend agreement today providing for continued reciprocal aid in the war against the Axis and laying down the broad principles of a final settlement of lease-lend accounts.

The agreement, which Foreign Minister T. V. Soong signed for China and Secretary of State Hull for the United States, is the same in all substantial respects as the lend-lease agreement concluded with Great Britain last February.

Soviet Russia's approval of the lend-lease proposal handed to Ambassador Maxim Litvinov last week has not yet been received. The proposed Russian agreement also is substantially the same as the agreement concluded with Britain.

The pact with China provides that the United States will continue to supply aid to that country and to receive such reciprocal assistance as China may be in a position to supply.

The agreement does not attempt at this stage to define the precise terms of settlement. Article VII provides that the ultimate settlement "shall be such as not to burden commerce between the two countries, but to promote mutually advantageous economic relations between them and the betterment of world wide economic relations."

Production Is No Longer Problem

Patterson Says Shipping of Weapons Is Big Question Now

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Weapons are coming from American factories in quantities sufficient to supply our own army and meet the requirements of our Allies, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson said today.

Despite the huge expansion of the United States Armed Forces, Patterson said in an interview, and despite the fact that the per capita issue of weapons has been increased in the army, the major problem now was shipping, not production.

"I am sure," said the undersecretary, "that the production of armaments will keep pace with need, and ahead of shipping. We will be able to equip all the troops we can raise."

"I am not saying that this will not call for continuous effort on the part of American industry. Production problems have not all been solved. However, I am confident we will find a solution for all of them, and anticipate no real shortage of production of military weapons for the army."

Roosevelt Asks War Declaration Against Three Axis Satellites

Approval by Congress Would Place Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania On U. S. Enemy List

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress to make the list of America's enemies officially complete today by declaring war on the Axis satellite nations, Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania.

As "instruments of Hitler," he said in a special message to Congress, these countries had declared war on the United States. Further, he said, they were engaged in military activities against the United Nations, activities which were about to be broadened.

Therefore, he urged that Congress recognize the existence of a state of war between them.

Might Benefit Russia

The acquiescence of Congress in the president's request was regarded as a mere formality. Arrangements were made to bring up a war resolution in the House tomorrow, and in the Senate later.

Several senators said the war declaration might be of aid to Russia, and would tend to encourage Turkey to resist any Axis incursion. Senator Austin (R-Vt.) said: "Of itself it is an act of political warfare, and will be of benefit to the United Nations."

Numerous reports from abroad have told of Rumanian and Hungarian forces aiding Hitler in the fight against Russia, and there have been signs of increasingly close cooperation between the Bulgarian government and the German military authorities.

There have been reports, too, that Germany was planning a new offensive, a sweep from the Balkans through Turkey to provide a pincer attack on the oil rich Russia Caucasus.

Would Swell Alien Group

The war declarations will add approximately 150,000 persons to the "Alien enemy" group in this country, making the total about 1,250,000.

Justice department officials, who are charged with administering the regulations governing enemy aliens, said that plans for bringing the new nationality groups under supervision had been started immediately. They declined to say, however, how many might be seized immediately as possibly dangerous to this nation's security or whether the new groups would be required to apply for identification certificates such as every German, Japanese and Italian subject in this country must carry on his person. It appeared likely that some such program would be undertaken, however.

PLANNED COLOGNE RAID

Air Marshal A. T. Harris

More than 1,250 British planes, the greatest armada ever sent on a single mission in the history of air warfare, smashed the German engineering and railway city of Cologne, with a loss of only forty-four planes. Air Marshal Arthur Harris, chief of the Bomber Command, directed the Cologne raid.

Russian Convoy Reaches Port After Attacks

Battered for Five Days and Nights by U-Boats and Nazi Planes

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—Battered for five days and nights in the strange, unending light of the Arctic's midnight sun by U-Boats and at least 100 German planes, a big United States-British supply convoy was disclosed today to have reached a Russian port with an indicated loss of but half a dozen ships.

The result was announced by the admiralty in a communique which gave a graphic picture of the perils of the Arctic convoy route to Murmansk and Archangel, where there never, at this time of year, is any protecting darkness and where the breaking of the Arctic ice restricts maneuverability of ships to a minimum.

German claims to the sinking of seventeen or eighteen ships were termed "an exaggeration of over 175 per cent."

German dive bombers, torpedo planes and level-flying bombers assaulted the convoy almost without pause from the evening of May 25 until May 30. Three of the attacking planes were reported shot down for sure, two others probably were destroyed and two others damaged.

One Heinkel, the admiralty disclosed, was destroyed by a Hurricane fighter catapulted from a specially-fitted merchantman.

In such cases, it was explained, the catapulted plane must land in the sea when its flying endurance is exhausted, and the pilots must take their chances of being picked up.

This time the British flier, Pilot Officer Alastair Hay, was picked up wounded by a British warship.

The admiralty paid unusual tribute to "the gallant defense and magnificent handling of the heavily laden ships in the convoy" and to the skillful work of the navy. It added: "Officers and crews of both the convoy and the escorts have the satisfaction of knowing that they have delivered large and important reinforcements to Russia's equipment in her present struggle."

Duke of Windsor Returns to Nassau As Workers Strike

Two Rioters Killed and Others Wounded before Order Is Restored

NASSAU, Bahamas, June 2 (AP)—(Delayed by censor)—Unskilled laborers on a large American project staged a demonstration in Nassau yesterday, smashing show windows and looting fashionable stores, and two of the rioters were killed and others wounded before police and troops restored partial order.

While the Duke of Windsor interrupted a business trip in Washington to hasten back, conditions remained unsettled.

A curfew from 8 p. m. to 6 a. m. was established by the acting governor, Social Secretary W. L. Heape. The demonstrators were protesting against wages of four shillings (about eighty cents a day) for unskilled labor on the project.

Laborers began marching into the city Monday morning. Their numbers increased as they approached the shops of fashionable Bay street, which skirts the harbor and contains most of this tourist city's swank stores.

Show windows were smashed and widespread looting of liquors, expensive English fabrics and rare perfumes was reported.

British garrison troops were summoned, when local police were unable to control the situation.

By Monday afternoon order was partly restored in the downtown streets of this capital of the Ba-

Krupp and Rhein Plants Hit Hard In Second Great British Assault

Churchill Reports 35 Planes Lost in Huge Aerial Attack; Great Fires Follow Raid

By E. C. DANIEL, JR.

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—A mighty aerial corps of British bombers and fighter planes, 1,036 of them, cast down fire and explosive with terrible effect upon the German Krupp munition center of Essen and its war plant environs last night in a second great raid on Germany in forty-eight hours—an assault that was proclaimed as only a token of what is yet to come from the combined air force of Britain and the United States.

Thousands of tons of bombs were dropped upon the Krupp and Rhein metal borsig plants, and if, as would seem obvious from the weight of the attack, the damage caused at Essen was as great as in Saturday night's 1,000-plane raid on Cologne, persons familiar with German production believed that a good sized percentage of the Reich's war industry could now be marked down as crippled.

RAF Springs Back
Again today the RAF sprang back to the assault, going over the channel in great force in one of the biggest daylight aerial offensives of the war.

During the morning there were large-scale sweeps over the Gravelines and Hardele areas of Northern France. One German plane was shot down and several damaged.

German troops and gun posts were attacked from low levels. Another force of morning raiders blasted railroads in Northern France and then in the afternoon Pas De Calais, Dieppe and offshore shipping were attacked.

In all, the air ministry said the RAF lost nine fighters, and knocked down three enemy fighters.

(The Germans claimed a bag of sixteen RAF planes during Tuesday's fighting. They didn't mention their own losses.)

It was the raid on Essen, however, that overshadowed all else and brought cheer to all England.

Giving the House of Commons a preliminary report today on this tremendous attack, Prime Minister Churchill declared that many fires were left, at a total cost of only thirty-five British bombers, and went on to predict what lies ahead for the Germans.

"I do not wish it to be supposed," (Continued on Page 12, Col. 6)

UMWA Committee Voted To Split W. Va. District

Policy Group Recommends Restoration of Former District 29

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—The United Mine Workers' policy committee voted today to split in half District 17, West Virginia, headed by Van Bittner who, like ousted Vice-President Phil Murray, also holds a similar office in the United Steel Workers of America.

The policy group adopted a report of an investigation commission whose chairman was Percy Tellow. UMW's technical adviser, recommending the restoration of District 29 in the smokeless coal fields of West Virginia, which had been absorbed in District 17 by the reorganization of 1933.

The action, if ratified by the miners' executive board or the convention in Atlantic City next October, would reduce Bittner's district from 100,000 members to approximately 50,000. The board meets Thursday.

Bittner's status as president of District 17 was undisturbed and the leader said he concurred in the decision and in continuance of the Tellow commission to handle grievances over the question of "rejects" in coal mined in the district. The reason given last week by the miners' executive board for removing Murray as vice-president was that he held a $20,000 job as SWOC president. The ouster was requested by UMW's President John L. Lewis.

Three Districts To Result Bittner said he was serving as an assistant to President Murray of the steel workers, a $12,000 berth. This question was not raised by the policy committee today, he hastened to point out. John O'Leary of Pittsburgh, who succeeded Murray as vice-president of the UMW, presided in Lewis's absence.

West Virginia would have three union districts under the new setup. District 31 would remain unchanged. The restored District 29 would consist of parts of Raleigh and Fayette counties and all of Greenbrier, Mercer and McDowell counties. With approximately 49,000 members. All of Southern West Virginia would remain in District 17.

The Tellow commission first was sent into District 17, with the sanction of Bittner and District Vice-President William Blizzard, to go into the problem of "rejects"—not present in other districts which have settled in the issue in contracts.

Rejects, it was explained, form a portion of the product mined which formerly was classed as slate or dirt. It is possible now to reclaim much of the "rejects," a spokesman explained, but the miner is not credited with it in his pay. Miners complained they still were being "docked" for it in their pay in District 17.

Tellow said union locals, despite the southern wage agreement eliminating the practice of docking for rejects, protested inability to secure adjustment of grievances, alleging inattention and neglect on the part of field officers of District 17.

Union Instructions The policy committee agreed to continue the Tellow commission, whose instructions from the international union are to:

"1. Undertake to enforce compliance with the Southern wage agreement on the part of coal companies now wrongfully penalizing our membership under the reject system.

"2. Secure a return of the fines illegally assessed on the mine workers by certain coal companies incident to the captive mine dispute.

"3. Undertake to establish a rational method of handling disputes under the agreement which will insure our membership prompt and fair consideration of their grievances."

The commission endorsed Bittner's action in assuming responsibility for the captive mine strike of last fall and recommended that District 17 officers "continue to press for a reply and a return of these illegal fines at the earliest possible date."

"The fines illegally assessed against our members by the coal companies incident to the captive mine dispute involve approximately $9,000 men and approximately $250,000," the commission said.

100 More Fighting Ships Will Be Ready This Year

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—The navy informed Congress today that approximately 100 more fighting ships would be put into commission this year, ready to take battle stations on the far flung seafarers and to guard the vital shipping lanes between this nation and its troops and allies.

The progress report on construction of naval vessels was furnished, in executive session, by Rear Admiral A. H. Van Keuren, chief of the Navy Bureau of Ships, to the House Naval committee, and was made public by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) with the admiral's permission.

Vinson described the committee was "well satisfied" with the report. Simultaneously, he announced committee approval of a $1,100,000,000 measure authorizing additional construction of 300,000 tons of auxiliary vessels, such as tenders and supply ships.

17-Year-Old Boy Sentenced to Life Term for Rape

Hagerstown Youth Startles Court in Confessing Hatred for Policemen

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 2 (AP)—A seventeen-year-old Montgomery county boy, who admitted he was "bad" and drank liquor heavily, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for rape.

Judge D. Lindley Sloan, in sentencing James A. Anderson immediately after a Washington County Circuit Court jury convicted him of raping a thirty-six-year-old Echo, Md., social security worker, issued a stinging commentary on the youth, his rearing, and the liquor industry.

Has Grudge Against Police "Here is a boy, not a man, who perhaps never will be a man," Sloan said.

"He has resented authority of any kind since the time he was a small boy."

"He was developed and retarded by a too-indulgent mother to whom he always went when he wanted sympathy. He had a lifelong grudge against policemen, and is a genuinely bad boy."

"This case is a mockery on the liquor business in that a boy seventeen years old became a drunkard."

Anderson displayed no emotion when he was sentenced. The jury was out only fifty-eight minutes.

The youth was charged with breaking into the woman's home last February 21 forcing her at gun point to disrobe, then attacking her in the bedroom.

On the stand earlier in the day, Anderson admitted he was intoxicated, and said he recalled events leading up to entering the house.

But, he said he did not remember assaulting the woman, that he did not threaten her life as she testified yesterday, and that he didn't think he could have committed the crime "either drunk or sober."

Admits Shooting at Police Anderson startled the courtroom by his hatred for policemen. "I just don't like them," he said from the witness stand. "Everything they say is just backwards to me, and I can't say I'm sorry I shot at them the evening of February 21."

Corp. Frank Sopher of the Montgomery county police testified yesterday that the youth, in a written confession made at Rockville jail, admitted firing several shots at a police car before he went to the woman's house.

Anderson testified that he had drunk several mixed drinks of rum, whiskey and beer, and then consumed three pints of whiskey the night of the alleged assault.

At another point in his testimony, he asserted bluntly that every time he got drunk he "had a desire to kill someone."

He acknowledged he had been a "bad boy" and appeared to take satisfaction in telling the court and jury of his past record.

The youth described in detail the number of times he had been arrested, what he had stolen, and the time he had spent in reformatories.

His mother, Mrs. Ruth Naomi Devine, had testified yesterday her son had been in trouble since he entered school ten years ago and immediately started "playing hooky" from classes.

He became involved in several petty larcenies, she said, and frequently flew into violent rages.

Was "Paralyzed Drunk" Mrs. Devine said her son was "paralyzed drunk" the night of the alleged attack.

Defense counsel has asserted that Anderson was a "problem child" and

United Miners Avoid an Open Break with CIO

Demand that CIO Pay Debts and Cease Attacks on John L. Lewis

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—The United Mine Workers avoided an open break with the CIO today, but laid down three conditions as the price of continued affiliation.

The Miners' Policy committee, in effect, placed the separation question on the CIO table by declaring it would make no more per capita tax payments in cash until, first, the CIO acknowledged a debt of $1,665,000 to the miners; second, entered into conferences with the AFL and gave the miners representation, and third, ceased attacks upon the UMW, its leaders and its organization efforts.

Relations Badly Strained The miners' decision will be considered by the CIO Executive Board at sessions starting tomorrow and by the UMW's biennial convention in Atlantic City next October.

"In the meantime," said a report adopted by the Miners' Policy committee, "we will continue to tender payment of per capita tax to the CIO by offering tax payments from monies due and payable to the United Mine Workers of America on the loan account of the CIO."

While both sides acknowledged relations were badly strained, the threads of nominal affiliation still existed in view of the miners' decision to refrain from any affirmative withdrawal action.

A spokesman for the UMW said eight members of the Policy committee of about 235 dissented from the adoption of the report on CIO relationship. He identified only three of these. They were Davis, District 31 president, Fairmont, W. Va., and Martin Wagner, International board member for District 50, Wagner, a Lewis appointee, was the only member of the miners' board who voted last week against the removal of Philip Murray as vice president of the miners.

Wagner Opposes Report Wagner spoke against the report and Van A. Bittner, president of District 17, West Virginia, objected to parts of it, the union spokesman said in relating events at the closed session of the Policy committee.

There were substantial indications the CIO leadership would acknowledge the cash debt, but a further condition which the miners placed on repayment endangered the possibility of settling that issue.

The Policy committee report rejected "with contempt" suggestions that the CIO raise the money by levying a special assessment on all members of CIO unions. That would include the miners themselves.

Friends of John L. Lewis, president of the miners, expressed belief that such a special assessment would be given an anti-Lewis label and endanger further ill will. Bittner, in his talk to the meeting today, asserted the CIO should be free to obtain the money and repay the loan in the manner it thought best.

British Raid Wipes Out an Area A Mile Wide BERN, Switzerland, June 2 (AP)—An area of about a mile by a mile and a half was virtually wiped out by British airmen in their Saturday night raid on Cologne, reliable reports from Germany said today.

This meant a heavy death toll in the closely packed Rhineland Metropolis but anything like a reliable figure on casualties was lacking.

suffered mental disorders aggravated by drink the night he broke into the woman's home.

Judge Sloan called it "an extremely strange case" and said that although the liquor establishment where Anderson purchased drinks was not under indictment, the place was "responsible to a great degree for his crime."

Motorship Sunk; Eight Lose Lives

American Vessel Torpedoed Northwest of Trinidad on May 17

AN EASTERN UNITED STATES PORT, June 2 (AP)—Eight of sixty-seven crew members aboard a large American motorship were killed when their vessel was torpedoed in the Caribbean sea Northwest of Trinidad the Third Naval District announced today.

Arrival of survivors from a Panamanian merchant ship sunk in the Atlantic also was disclosed by the district headquarters.

Survivors of the American vessel said the torpedoing occurred the night of May 17, and that enemy projectiles exploded ammunition in the ship with a terrific blast.

Those who escaped the explosion got away from the sinking vessel in two lifeboats and two life rafts. They were picked up the next day by a United States ship, taken first to Trinidad and then brought here.

All but one member of the forty-five crewmen aboard the Panamanian ship, which was torpedoed in the Atlantic May 20, survived the attack. The forty-four survivors were rescued by an American naval vessel.

Crew members arriving here said the torpedo from the Axis submarine hurled fragments of their ship high into the air and started a fire.

St. John's Professor Named to Maryland Board of Resources

BALTIMORE, June 2 (AP)—William H. Bayliff of Annapolis, associate professor of biology at St. John's college, today was appointed executive secretary of the Maryland Board of Natural Resources.

Edwin Warfield, board chairman who announced the appointment, said Bayliff headed a list of five candidates certified to the board by State Employment Commissioner Harry C. Jones.

Bayliff, whose salary will be $3,000 a year, will assume his new duties July 1. The merit system position was created by an act of the last legislature.

Warfield said the new executive secretary has had fourteen years experience in educational work in Maryland. Bayliff has been associated with aquatic research work since 1940 and has served on the research and education committee of the Chesapeake biological laboratory at Solomons.

The board will establish an office here where Bayliff will make his headquarters.

Grove Lime Company Gets Contract To Build Bridge across Monocacy

BALTIMORE, June 2 (AP)—The M. J. Grove Lime Company of Frederick, low bidder for the construction of an arch bridge across the Monocacy river and only bidder for the bridge approaches, was awarded today the contract to build the new span.

The State Roads Commission, announcing the award, said the Frederick firm bid $244,385 to build the span and $169,000 to build the approaches. Bids for the approach construction were opened today and the contract has not yet been awarded.

WARTIME GRADUATE

GRADUATION HONORS go to this New York creation of white waffle pique, trimmed in Irish crochet.

Because thrift is the new American credo, girls of the class of '42 are choosing their graduation dresses with an eye to practical use after the commencement ceremonies. Most popular with smart seniors all over the country are the crisp white cottons that do double duty as summer evening frocks.

The New York Dress Institute reports an overwhelming preference for white pique trimmed in white Irish crochet for graduation dresses this year. Close runner up is the traditional white organdie, cut on simple, youthful lines, often with round Peter Pan collar and tucked trimming.

Army Pilot Is Killed in Crash

Plane Located after Passenger Is Found Wandering in Dazed Condition

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., June 2 (AP)—A U. S. Army plane long overdue on a flight to Louisville, Ky., was reported tonight to have crashed into the side of Big Flat mountain, twenty-two miles northeast of Chambersburg, killing the pilot, First Lieutenant J. C. Fennella.

Private J. L. Burkholder of the state motor police, said he was informed by District Forester George Hartzell that a searching party found the craft in an area recently swept by fire. He said the plane did not catch fire, but was unable to give additional details.

Earlier in the day Second Lt. Alexander Salm of Tuxedo, N. Y., later identified as a passenger in the plane, was found wandering in a dazed condition eighteen miles from here by Charles Potts, truck driver of Hagerstown, Md. This started an intensive search for the missing ship.

Officials at the Middletown air depot, near Harrisburg, said the plane left there at 1:47 p. m. Monday for a flight to Louisville by way of Elkins, W. Va., and carried a five-hour supply of gasoline.

Chambersburg is about sixty miles from Middletown.

Army officials said Salm was a passenger in the missing plane piloted by First Lieutenant John C. Fennella, address unknown. Both men had their home base at Goodfellow Field, San Angelo, Texas.

Potts took Salm to a Chambersburg hospital where Dr. J. C. Hudson said his condition was serious but not critical.

DODGE TRUCK PLANT CLOSED AFTER WORKERS STAGE DEMONSTRATION

DETROIT, June 2 (AP)—The Chrysler Corporation today closed its Dodge truck plant which employs 3,000 men after the management reported, some 700 employees demonstrated inside the factory protesting the transfer of twenty negroes into the plant.

A company spokesman said the negroes were transferred from the main Dodge plant under the Chrysler agreement with the United Automobile Workers (CIO) and at the request of international union officials.

When the negroes entered the plant, the management reported, 350 workers left their machines and threatened to throw them out of the factory. Fighting was averted, it was said, but about 700 employees then staged a protest in front of the plant manager's office.

Morris Field, assistant director of the Chrysler department of the International UAW-CIO, said "the local union have to accept the negroes. The UAW and CIO policy calls for equal treatment of negroes, and so does the American Constitution. The union will abide by that policy."

Dorothy Lamour Is Johns Hopkins Patient

BALTIMORE, June 2 (AP)—Dorothy Lamour, film actress, entered the Johns Hopkins hospital today for "a general physical" checkup after a 20,890-mile trip selling war bonds.

Hospital attaches said she was a patient of Dr. John T. King Jr. They were unable to say how long she would remain in the hospital.

LEAHY RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

Adm. William D. Leahy (center), United States Ambassador to France, arrives at Union Station, Washington, D. C., where he was greeted by Ray Atherton (left), chief of the European division of the state department, and Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, former governor-general of Puerto Rico. Adm. Leahy accompanied the body of his wife who died in France.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Forthcoming American war declarations against a trio of Axis puppets, Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary, take on more than legitimate significance in the light of the timing of the president's request for congressional action.

Those three states, dragged into action by Hitler to aid his war plans, have been ignored in Washington for months. But now the White House deems it expedient to put them in the same basket with the Axis proper as declared enemies of the United States. Mr. Roosevelt explained that they were preparing to expand their activities against the United Nations.

Send Token Forces

Two of the three states, Rumania and Hungary, have sent token forces against Russia. However, if Hitler's summer campaign plan includes Turkey in its orbit, Bulgaria must be vitally involved. A Nazi march eastward against the Suez pivot of the United Nations battle line must go through or around Turkey from a Bulgarian jump-off. Germany would need states either to awe Turkey into submission or to beat down her resistance if she chose to fight.

And with the United States at war with those states, Turkey obviously would be as eligible for American lend-lease aid as Russia, Britain or China, provided she did resist. The Washington war declarations would clear the way in a legal sense for that and might go far to determine Turkey's course if Hitler turned in that direction.

Many European observers predict Turkish involvement despite the untrustworthy non-aggression pact with Germany. The fact that the British appear to be frustrating the renewed Axis drive in Libya is calculated to stiffen Turkish resistance to Berlin intrigue in any case, and an American declaration against Turkey's Nazi-led neighbors is bound to help also.

There are many other possibilities latent in the timing of the president's move. Not least among them is its further American war support for Russia. Rumor has credited Hitler with strenuous winter efforts to obtain additional manpower from Rumania and Hungary for his Russian campaign; and to draw Bulgaria also into that campaign the American declarations would place this country at war with all Russia's actual or potential foes while Russia is not at war with Japan.

Cites Deduction

The reasonable deduction from that curious situation is that an ultimate and perhaps not remote Russian quid-pro-quo war declaration against Japan could result, its timing dependent upon what happens within the next two or three months on the Russian west front.

The fact that the president's request for war declarations was made just after the British aerial attack on Essen is also probably significant. Both Bulgaria and Rumania are within long range Allied bombing attack from across the Mediterranean.

It is no more than 700 miles air-line from Egypt to Rumanian oil fields from which comes the bulk of German war fuel. The Washington war declarations will make those

Decision Will Be Reached Soon on Gasoline Rationing

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board said today that a decision on nationwide gasoline rationing possibly would be announced before next Tuesday.

Nelson said WPB took no definite action at a meeting this afternoon, but had "gone over the whole question" of the nation's rubber shortage and had discussed the proposed rationing with all interested government officials.

Asked whether the final decision would be left up to President Roosevelt, Nelson said that it might be but added: "Or he may ask us to make it—we're ready either way."

In addition to Petroleum Coordinator Ickes, other government officials attending today's WPB session included Archibald Macleish, director of the Office of Facts and Figures.

Infant's Slayer Pleads Innocent To Kidnap Charge

Youth, 15, Confessed Killer, Held under $25,000 Bond

MARQUETTE, Mich., June 2 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Ross Heath, confessed slayer of 2½ months-old Gloria Jean Nault, pleaded innocent late this afternoon to a charge of kidnapping.

Arraigned before Circuit Judge Frank A. Bell, the youth, whose early life was spent under circumstances, was held under $25,000 bond for trial at the September term of court.

Earlier, Heath waived preliminary examination in Municipal court after Probate Judge C. C. Rushton, who first received the case since the youth is a juvenile, had relinquished jurisdiction.

Confers with Attorney Heath entered a plea of innocent after a conference with Attorney John J. Walsh and his mother, Mrs. Ruth Heath of Chicago, a former circus giantess.

In a signed statement to Sgt. Charles W. Engle of the Marquette state police post, who led the hunt after the infant's nude body was found in a truck cab near New Swaney, Heath admitted taking the child Sunday night from his parents' automobile parked outside a tavern.

Says He Fell on Baby Heath said he had intended to kidnap the baby for ransom—"to get a little extra dough"—but that his plans miscarried when he accidentally killed the infant when he tripped and fell on her as he ran from the car.

The youth, according to the statement, removed the baby's clothing, which had been found behind the tavern, in order "to fool the police."

He said he had planned to hide the baby "somewhere" and then leave a ransom note in the car.

ESSENTIAL HOUSING UNITS IN 25 STATES GET WPB APPROVAL

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—More than 100,000 of the most "essential" war housing units now under construction—involving seventy-six publicly-financed projects in twenty-five states and 51,350 privately-financed units in twenty states—were given the official go ahead signal by WPB today.

Work on virtually all would otherwise have been stopped because of the "freeze" of supplies of construction lumber. John B. Blandford, Jr., national housing administrator, reported.

Under the special relief order, WPB will issue an overall authorization permitting contractors on these specific projects to obtain enough lumber to complete them. It was understood, Officials said that only about half of the publicly-financed work already started was included in the approved list and the fate of the others already under construction remained uncertain.

Making the list of approved projects public, WPB emphasized that present demand for lumber "greatly exceeds the supply" and that even contractors who receive authorizations to purchase lumber could not expect prompt delivery in every instance.

Johnny Will Step Out of Character In Radio Program

Callboy Will Tell Listeners Some Things about Himself

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK, June 2. — Johnny the Callboy from the Johnny Presents series is to step out of radio character and tell Nellie Revell and her NBC audience some things about himself. He will appear in her interview series on NBC at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Johnny, who is forty-three inches tall, weighs forty-eight pounds, has been in radio since 1933, graduating from a hotel page boy.

"Death Came Calling," a story of an unhappy marriage, an accident and a young girl's weak heart, will be the offering of the Manhattan at Midnight drama on the Blue at 8:30. The cast is to include Michael Fitzmaurice and Joan Vitez.

Frill Music
Great Moments in Music, CBS at 10, will do excerpts from Rudolph Friml's "Firefly," with Jean Tennyson, Jan Peerce and Robert Meade as the singers.

Patriotic, cowboy and love songs all will be intermingled in the program listed for Nelson Eddy's concert over CBS at 8. Nadine Connor also sings in this broadcast.

Morgan Beatty now is doing the 8 a. m. news spot on the Blue. He also is heard at 10:30 p. m. in a military analysis.

After announcing that it was all set, MBS changed its mind and the Musical Trend series previously set to begin Wednesday has been postponed one week. When it does

Rehearing Asked For Harry Bridges

Attorney for Alleged Communist Charges Unfairness

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP) — A petition for a rehearing before Attorney General Francis Biddle on his order for the deportation of Harry R. Bridges, West Coast leader of the CIO, has been presented to the department of Justice by Mrs. Carol King, Bridges's attorney. In her petition, Mrs. King said that although a leeway of thirty to ninety days was customarily allowed for surrender in deportation cases, the attorney general had ordered Bridges taken into custody and deported immediately on a telegraphic warrant of deportation.

Deportation Ordered

Biddle ordered Bridges's deportation to Australia on grounds of membership in the Communist party, which the attorney general declared was an organization advocating the overthrow of the United States government by force and violence.

Mrs. King said she filed the petition for a rehearing as "the only procedure now open for review of the evidence in the case." Mrs. King said that while she was in Washington last Friday conferring with the Department of Justice to seek reassurance that the customary time would be allowed, Major Lemuel B. Schofield, head of the immigration service, was personally taking the papers in the case to Philadelphia and had telephoned Bridges's San Francisco attorneys ordering them to surrender him immediately.

Takes Lot of Money

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—The keeper of the mascots at Colorado university says he's entitled to the last laugh on whoever stole "Buffie," the CU buffalo mascot, and took him to Fort Collins to parade on College day with Colorado State college students.

"With feed at the high price of $17 a ton, it cost them a pretty penny to keep Buffie until he was sent back to us, and it saved us dough on our feed bill," said the keeper.

Don't throw out that old chest of drawers or seedy-looking kitchen table—paint them! You can do it easily yourself, at practically no expense! And you will get years more service from them!

USING ENAMEL?

BEFORE applying enamel to a piece of furniture, go over the surface with a clean piece of cheesecloth; then dip another piece in varnish, let it dry, and use it as a dust cloth. This should give a lint and dust-free painting surface.

BEFORE you use enamel, mix it thoroughly. Pour the top liquid into a separate clean container. Then, using a stick, stir up any solids that may have collected at the bottom of the can. Once the contents have been thoroughly mixed, add the rest of the liquid, stirring in a little at a time. Apply the first stroke carefully, then dip the brush into the excess enamel on the edge of the can, smooth the painted surface out very lightly, working across the stroke that you made with your first application. For a final smoothing, go over the same surface lightly a third time in the direction of your original stroke. Whenever possible, the first brushing application should be vertical, the second horizontal, the third vertical, and so on, always with a light touch. Never "brush in" enamel and never go over an enamel surface after it begins to dry.

Time To Remove State Barriers

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made at Annapolis that reciprocity will be granted as to licenses of trucks and passenger cars from other states operating on Maryland highways for the purpose of bringing this state into line with co-operative action toward removing trade barriers existing between the states.

Governor O'Connor says a proclamation will be issued as a result of the recent meeting of President Roosevelt's committee on state trade barriers, providing that current licenses in force in any reciprocal state will be recognized in Maryland.

Chiefly prompting the action was the fact that many of the cars affected are used by war workers, of whom many thousands have come into the state bringing along their cars to be used as a means of transportation to war plants.

The action, recommended among other similar steps at the president's conference, is a distinct step forward in the removal of the numerous trade and transportation barriers over which there has lately been rising protest.

It is an astounding fact, but nevertheless true, that upward of 1,500 state laws and regulations made under state laws have contributed to the Balkanization of this country. That number of these foolish restrictions has been noted by the department of Commerce in official publications.

The purpose of these restrictive laws is two-fold. The major one is that of protecting home industry by forcing people to use the products of their own states in the place of those of adjoining or even more distant states. The other purpose is that of raising revenues.

Citations in an article of a recent issue of the Khoan's Magazine show that the revenue yield from these sources is more or less of a sham, as expenses of inspections required eat up the most of the fees derived. As for protecting home industries, it is difficult to see how they are actually served when the state economy is impaired as it is when free passage of goods and commodities is restricted, especially when the cost increases required by these state barriers merely add to the cost of living.

Some laws have been introduced in Congress directed at the abolition of these state barriers, many of which, in spirit at least, exceed the inspection authority given Congress by the constitution and granted by the Congress, consent of which is necessary. Something of the kind should in all reason be enacted in view of the abuses that have grown up. Meanwhile, however, much can be achieved through co-operative action of the states.

A Welcome Saving But More Is Needed

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT deserves credit for having reduced the WPA budget so as to effect a saving of $185,000,000 for the 1942 fiscal year; but he merits even more credit than making this comparatively small though important economy in admitting that the WPA is an emergency organization, set up to meet exigencies of a depression long since past and not designed to last forever as the bureaucrats involved have so wishfully supposed.

It is to be hoped that the executive will find the time from his onerous duties to look around a bit more in the interest of economy in governmental expenditures. There is much to be seen, and in many instances useless spending sticks up like a can of worms. If the president cannot stomach the idea of giving study to the recommendations of Senator Byrd's joint congressional committee on the elimination of non-essential expenditures, he could look over those of the Brookings Institute, non-partisan research organization, which has specified eliminations aggregating two billion dollars a year plus.

There are numerous other reports along the same line. Senator Tydings has pointed to the needless multiplicity of governmental publicity bureaus, which he characterizes as "one of the most wasteful activities of the federal bureaucracy." Senator Tydings is chairman of a special Senate committee seeking to promote economy and efficiency in federal government. The publicity racket is but one of numerous wasteful things to which it has been giving attention. The 2,000 or more typewritten pages sent out for publication daily, it has discovered, would fill every column of the average daily newspaper for six days, exclusive of advertising. In order to collect, write and edit and distribute this quantity of material, the departments have more than 32,000 full-time or part-time employees in Washington, or in the field, with a pay roll of $27,000,000.

These reminders are not to look a gift horse in the mouth, as the presidential saving in WPA is indeed welcome, but there are so many horses to feed that it is entirely excusable to look some of them over.

Where Railroads Deserve Relief

PENDING before Congress is a bill to relieve western railroads of a contract obligation that has been helpful to the country in time of war, but has become a heavy burden on the roads in the era of rate regulation and political determination of operating costs.

When these roads were built the federal government aided them by extensive land grants. The first of these grants was made in 1862 to the Union Pacific. The Civil War strain on railroad transportation was in the minds of the people at the time, and a condition of the grants was that the roads should carry troops, mail and government property at reduced rates — sixty-six per cent of the regular rate at first, then fifty per cent of the regular rate. The fifty per cent provision is in effect today.

Last year the roads obtained some relief when Congress took off the mail and government property reduction and left only the provision for half price on all shipments of a purely military nature. Formerly roads that did not have to give land grant rates met the competition, but they no longer do so, with the result that the land grant roads are carrying an enormous proportion of the heavy military transportation load.

The grants were justified when made, and there would be public opposition today to relieving the roads of their obligation if it were not for the fact that the government has forced costs on them which have the effect of changing the terms of the contract without benefit to the roads. Relief through a reduction of the percentage probably will be granted in the interest of maintaining rail transportation in the West on an all-out war basis.

The railroads of the nation are doing an exemplary war job and should not be hindered in their operation by a parsimonious attitude on the part of the government.

Colonel Courageous

A SPECIAL MEDAL should be struck off and pinned on the intrepid chest of Col. Thomas N. Gimperling, army recruiting officer at Denver. Standing before 100 feminine applicants for admission to officers' training school of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, the colonel had the vertebrae to ack-ack thusly:

"The corps will tolerate no petulance or capricious feminine temperament. . . . You won't be able to get mad and quit. . . . This isn't going to be a tea party. . . . Return your qualifications within nine days—and nine days means just that, and I don't want the mails bringing them in on the tenth day."

Such unexampled bravery on the part of Col. Gimperling should not go unquestioned, in the opinion of that legion of American husbands who read of the colonel's unique toast, To the Ladies, and promptly swung into the non-vocal part of Deep in the Heart of Texas.

But many of the benedicts are baffled by the lack of reports that the colonel was not forced to make a strategic withdrawal when he uttered such fighting words to the gentler sex. C'est la guerre, mais oui?

A good thing to remember at this time is that the pioneer forefathers carried civilization to every corner of this country and they did it without benefit of a single gallon of gas or a set of pneumatic tires.

Our sports editor says that when he first heard of the Bong of Wong, he thought folks were referring to a new big league home run king.

With trouble brewing in so many occupied countries the Nazi octopus may soon be facing a tentacle shortage.

We're Prejudiced!

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Have you observed that the world is prejudiced?

We like Comedians more than we like Tragedians. The world may banker occasionally for a good cry, but it prefers to smile through its tears. A day crust may be good for our souls, but we'd like a little butter and jam on our bread. Disinfectants are useful; we prefer a cool wind from the sea. Homely girls may have solid qualities; but we swarm around the pretty maidens. That's the way we are.

Your friend may be wise, but he's dull. He may have traveled to every corner of the earth, but all he talked about last night was his appendicitis operation and what he said to the streetcar conductor who failed to stop at his street. I'm prejudiced against him.

Your man is a friend of sterling quality, but his handshake is limp, and I hold that against him. I'm unfair, I admit, but I can't help that. . . . Your other friend is a lightweight chatterbox, but he's an amusing weight and fun to be with and I like him.

The world is always prejudiced. It plays favorites. It has its "teacher's pets." It likes Daring, Dash and Audacity. Too often it overlooks solid worth to lavish praise on lads and lasses with pleasing personalities. It feels, however, that it is getting its money's worth.

It likes square guys, brave underdogs, cheerful fellows, wagging tails, comradely winks. It's prejudiced in favor of the capable and the strong, whose coat of arms includes a stiff upper lip. Sometimes it flatters ruthless ambition and obeys its imperious command, but it takes off its coat, lights its pipe and feels at home in the house of quiet folk who never wanted much and neither did they get much. . . . It's prejudiced and can't help that.

Is Optimism shallow? The world likes it. Is Hope a vain dream and Faith the creed of despair? The world has faith in both.

Is Courage futile? Hang on, Hang on! cries the world in admiration. Chuckling babes, laughing lads, strong men and women—these win the love of the world. Is that world unfair when it gives so much to those who do not need its praise? Perhaps, but neither can that be helped. The world is prejudiced, I am prejudiced. . . . and so are you.

Debt and Other Deductions Are Urged for Taxes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 2.—There are many changes being suggested for the new tax bill but most of them as yet comprise revisions of rate rather than rules of regulation.

Inasmuch as Congress is performing a major surgical operation on the national economy by means of drastic taxation, the interest of the taxpayer in getting equitable treatment on deduction allowances would seem to be necessarily intensified.

Thus for years there have been inconsistencies in the tax structure that have not had behind them a sufficient public opinion to effect a change. It is not generally realized, for instance, that a business which insures the life of one of its executives and furnishes that policy as collateral for a bank loan cannot deduct the cost of the annual premium as a business expense. But the same business can deduct a premium for fire insurance as a necessary expense.

Even when the loan will not be issued except by furnishing as collateral a policy on the life of a key executive and even when the policy is of the term type which does not build up any cash value, the premium is not deductible as a business expense for tax purposes.

Discretion Needed

More and more it would appear that Congress would be justified in giving broad discretionary authority to the Internal Revenue bureau to deal with hardship cases and inconsistencies and inequities that arise. The bureau has grown remarkably in its efficiency and administrative quality in the last few years. Although there are the usual rumors about misuse of the bureau's machinery for punitive political purposes, it is noteworthy that the congressional committees have apparently not uncovered enough of such instances to warrant any charge of that kind or any inquiry.

The taxpayer who finds himself in difficulties with the Bureau of Internal Revenue is much more often irritated by the inconsistency of rulings accumulated over long periods of time rather than over any feeling of political bias. The bureau itself has an excellent personnel and Congress would do well to entrust to this personnel more discretionary power as is the case in Britain.

British Have Authority

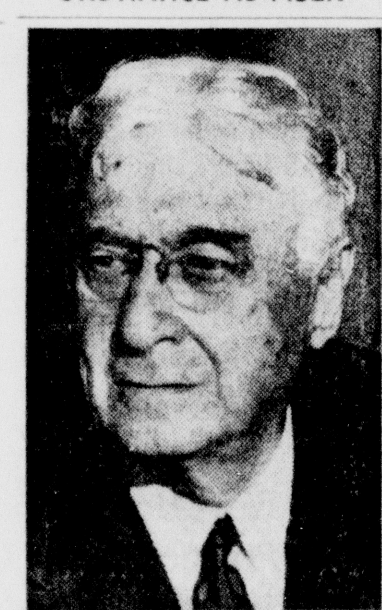

The representatives of the British tax bureau have virtually unlimited authority to make tax settlements on the spot, thus saving the taxpayer and the government vast sums in litigation and administrative checking. America's Internal Revenue bureau will have a tremendous job of collecting and auditing of returns to do in the next few years and if Congress trusted the bureau more and gave it a code on deductible allowances brought up to date to remove inequities, the whole tax system would move forward to greater productivity of revenue.

Incidentally, Congress is beginning to hear about one inequity—namely, the need for some deductible allowance for debt retirement. Many small businesses, affected by price ceilings on the one hand and higher excess profits taxes on the other are facing uncertainly the question of paying fixed installments on debt.

"In February 1938," writes one business man, "I decided to go forward with an expansion program in my business. We arranged a bond issue of $60,000 with no maturities for the first two years and the balance to be amortized over the next eight years. . . .

Big Profits Unlikely
"Our business is not affected very much by the general economic conditions one way or the other. There is no possibility of our reaping abnormal profits regardless of the trend of the times. Now we are confronted with this situation: How are we going to meet the payments of our obligations and at the same time. . . .

Reduced British Losses in Air Bombing Are Viewed As Making Big War Turn

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The war has turned in this way — turned completely over, reached its feet and is galloping. Evidence is available on every front.

The mass raid on Cologne, for instance, signalled the beginning of the greatest air-bombing campaign the world has ever seen. It is true no war yet has been won by bombing, but no war yet has seen such scientific air bombardment in such vast force as is coming up.

The Nazis lost the air battle of Britain because they could not stand the losses. In their heaviest bombing raids, they lost as many as 145 to 150 ships a night, or about twenty percent of the force involved. They had to quit because in five days they would have needed 100 percent air replacements.

Their average losses through the whole air battle of Britain was whole air battle of Britain was much, also. They would have needed 100 percent replacement every ten days to keep that up.

Cologne Loss Smaller

But in the Cologne raid, if you accept the British version (forty-four shot down) and the figure the number of British bombers involved as 1,000, the rate of loss was only 4.4 percent—which means success, and bodes ill for Hitler's future.

There are several reasons for this. For the first time in history, Britain used night fighter pursuit planes to protect the bombers. One British air officer here was so surprised at the press reports of this feat, he refused to believe them true until official confirmation followed.

The British apparently massed their fighter pursuit along the coast for a takeoff when the bombers came along from deeper inland. These fighters were then able to take care of the Nazis planes sent up from the occupied Belgian and French fields to intercept the bombers.

Never before had pursuits been used in a night raid, and only once previously in a daylight raid over France.

Protection Inadequate

But there is another greater reason. Germany cannot protect adequately against bombing the vast region of her homeland and occupied military objectives.

She cannot provide sufficient anti-aircraft fire at every vulnerable place. Nor can she shift her air force around to meet nightly challenges which may be hundreds gram was the result. Under this policy, the United States in effect slashed tariff rates horizontally on a long list of imports. Individual agreements were entered into with separate nations. It is true, in this country made certain tariff concessions in return for concessions. But every reduction granted in an individual agreement was extended to the world at large without any concessions from these beneficiaries at all.

Mr. Hull, as we say, gave his theories full sway. And his program neither promoted world peace, improved the world relations of the United States, restored international trade to a healthy volume nor promoted American prosperity.

of miles apart. The British can hit Rostock one night, Cologne the next.

Cologne was chosen for the first mass blow, because it is the biggest rail center of German communications behind the western lines. It has a main rail line running from Germany to France and the main line north and south.

France would not have fallen if the British could have done there twenty-four months earlier what they did on the night of May 30.

Also that rail center lies within easy pursuit range, about 200 miles from the British coast (half hour flying time).

Better Bomb Sight Coming

Now when British raiding soon is amplified by American assistance, with our better bombsight (the British prefer their own swifter acting but less accurate one) you will find out how far air bombing can go toward winning a war. The air force probably is a little over-optimistic in its hopes.

In Spain, Britain and elsewhere, bombing usually strengthens domestic morale and failed of decisive results. Obvious handwriting in the skies now for Hitler might possibly cause a different result in Nazidom at this particular time, although no one is counting on it. Invasion will follow.

So also in Libya. The British have achieved air superiority there, the superiority without which victories cannot be won; the superiority they did not have in France, Norway, Singapore, Malaya.

Consequently, the crafty Marshal Rommel is confronted with a problem in extricating himself from his recent offensive.

Tobruk The Objective

His attack was no doubt aimed only at capture of Tobruk, in expectation that it could be held during the summer as a jumping-off place for the fall campaign against the Suez.

Rommel planned it with his customary skill, somehow getting through the protective British mine fields. This was done presumably by ascertaining their location from spies, then bombing a path through them by airplane, before sending his tanks through.

However, when he once got through, all his gasoline, food and other supplies had to follow the same channel and the British, with superior air power, were able to concentrate their attack and destroy an unprecedented number of vehicles.

Thus it appears Rommel will have to capture Tobruk to save himself from a disastrous retreat through the same narrow roads.

Conflicting Claims

The Kharkov fighting cannot be assayed yet. If the German claim of 240,000 prisoners captured is true, the Nazis won an important victory, the effects of which will be evident in the coming Nazi drive at Rostov.

However, if you accept the Red admission of the loss of 75,000 (5,000 killed and 70,000 wounded and missing) while claiming 90,000 Germans, the Russians won. Germany cannot stand to lose even man for man.

But only by future developments on that front can you ascertain which claim is accurate, and thus learn the outcome of one of the biggest battles of the war.

Capital Residents May Be Forced To Take Boarders

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Did you ever have some entire stranger or several of 'em, possibly ungentlemanly, too, compulsorily "billed" into your household? That's what Washingtonians are going to be up against shortly.

The capital's wartime population has increased so much and so fast that the town can't shelter further new arrivals except by conscripting quarters for 'em. It isn't merely that hotel accommodations are unavailable for transients. Folk, by thousands, who are here to stay for awhile, can't get rooms to sleep in overnight, nor find space to get undressed and dressed in at eve and morn, as regular roomers.

Convention Times

I've seen crowded metropolitan centers before—places where a convention or some such thing was just pulled off and all habitable space was over-occupied, but in such instances, it's been only a matter of hours that you've been required to bunk in with another or two brief sojourners of your own sex. Or, if you couldn't stand it, you could pass up that particular function and stay away.

These times, though, if you're drafted by Uncle Sam's government, you've GOT to stay. And no burg ever before was congested as this one is right now. It isn't so much so with soldiers—they've got forts and barracks; it's with civilian workers, many of 'em with families that have to slumber under roofs at night, even if the womenfolk have to cook their families' chow over gas stoves at cetera for weeks to come, while the jam's liquidating itself.

Too Little and Too Late

Temporarily, frame-built, but enormously spread-out shacks are being shot up by the government, as rapidly as possible, to house the incoming horde. It's a program that's described by commentators as far "too little and too late." A governmental war worker, scooped in on short notice, with a wife and three or four kids to lodge with, can't wait a matter of weeks, to tuck 'em in at home.

Naturally a lot of Washingtonians have opened the doors to old friends, "for the duration." Naturally, also, a lot of 'em have opened up, for the sake of the high prices it's currently possible to exact. But my! that isn't a drop in the bucket!

The whole thing's bulging now and conservative estimates are that there'll be at least 25,000 more in a fortnight or so.

Mansions Are Eyed

And there's 75,000 less than room for our needs already than elastic Manhattan or Chicago's. Manhattan has all of New York state's space to accommodate it; Chicago all of Illinois and adjoining states'. Washington's pinched up to the District of Columbia.

Washington, however, has a lot of classy mansions—even palaces.

The idea's to billet folk in 'em. Now, suppose you're a comparatively moderate bird, with an extra room or two, that you don't occupy. I, small scale as I am, have ONE. We pewees don't think of ourselves as eligibles. Or, maybe if we DO, we don't feel like taking in outsiders.

That's OUR class. But suppose you're a plutocrat, with a mansion on Massachusetts avenue, a palace frequented by statesmen and diplomats and such. You don't want to take in boarders, do you?

You Have No Choice

Well, we, the pewees and the plutocrats, are the ones who are to have guys and families billeted on us.

They're to be wished on us by the government.

The officers mayn't be so bad. What'll make us holler is having their families billeted among us.

The dove'll be. "Here are boarders! Here you are stuck with 'em. You'll take what you're paid. You'll like 'em or not. Here they are—they're 'billed'."

How'd you like it in your town? Well, it's what Washington has got coming.

It isn't so bad for our mansioners. They'll move out into their suburbs, leaving the billetes on the job, but ordinary folk—billed out of house and home?

That's what is coming in the District of Columbia.

Factographs

Mahogany wood is now considered one of the critical materials in our all-out war program. It is chosen for its unusual strength.

Special paper used in making U. S. currency costs the government 40 cents a pound.

It is estimated that the American public gives $5,000,000 annually to Pullman porters.

The robin is the official state bird of Michigan, Virginia and Wisconsin.

Expectant Mother's Teeth Require Care, Dr. Logan Clendening Says

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"For every baby, a tooth" has long been a byword among the old wives of the household, but according to Dr. O. Lee Schattenburg, it is no longer true. Dr. Schattenburg, is associate director of the Bureau of Maternal and Child Health where nearly 200 obstetrical and pediatric clinics have achieved remarkable results in lowering maternal and child death rates in the last decade.

It is also an unfounded idea that to prevent miscarriage an expectant mother must avoid the dentist's chair. Not only should the mother have good care from the onset of pregnancy for her own sake, but also for the sake of guarding the child against dental defects. In order to offer the child protection against dental defects, we must begin early in pregnancy because it has been demonstrated that, under unfavorable circumstances, a child may have considerable dental defects at birth, even six months before the teeth are due to erupt.

What Causes Your Constipation?

The super-refined foods we eat these days too often do not give us enough "bulk food." And medical science tells us that lack of sufficient "bulk" is one of the commonest causes of constipation! If that is your trouble, harsh cathartics and violent purges are, at best, only temporary remedies. How much better to get at the cause and correct it! Why not make sure that you are getting the "bulk" you need by eating Kellogg's All-Bran? All-Bran is a delicious, crispy cereal that millions of folks rely on. Eat All-Bran yourself—eat it daily—and drink plenty of water—not only to get regular but to keep regular. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, it's wise to see a doctor.

Pre-Natal Tests

At the present time, of course, it is a universal practice to give a mother what is called pre-natal care, which means that she is examined regularly. Her general health is assessed and the integrity of every organ and every function of her body is severely tested. Modern knowledge of nutrition will help to guard not only her own health, but insure a healthy and functionally perfect child.

The regimen for safeguarding the teeth of the mother and child consists of adherence to an adequate diet, including calcium and iron and a sufficiency of vitamins A, C and D. The only truth in the old adage that "for every child a tooth" lies in the fact that in supplying calcium for the bones of the growing child, this calcium might be taken away from the mother's teeth. If she gets an adequate supply in her own diet, no such danger will exist.

Care of the Teeth

Another thing that is taken care of during this period is dental infection. This is very important, not only in preserving the teeth themselves, but in avoiding a number of obstetrical complications. Modern obstetricians accept dental sepsis as being frequently the background of several important complications and they feel that they should insist on the elimination of dental sepsis early in pregnancy. Among these complications are infection of the pelvis of the kidney, phlebitis (inflammation of the veins).

The question of painless child birth is wrapped up with the question of painless dentistry, neither of which has an entirely satisfactory solution at the present time. Envisioning a new type of painless dentistry based on electrical energy rather than drugs, Dr. Schattenburg has said: "Is it possible that if the cyclotron can break up the atom and give us radio-active substances, other forms of electrical energy can be used to block a nerve?" The x-ray can help us to visualize the tooth structure.

why can't x-ray help us to block out its pain perception?"

Questions and Answers

L. W.—"What effects do sulfonamide drugs have on the health when taken over a long period of time? Would this lead to high blood pressure?"

Answer: Sulfonamide drugs are potentially very toxic and should in no circumstances be taken over a long period of time, even in small doses. They lead to skin eruptions, liver damage and have a general effect on the nutrition and health, but I do not know that they have any effect on blood pressure.

Bedford Road Homemakers Will Go to College Park

July Meeting of Organization Will Be Held in Constitution Park

Twelve members of the Bedford Road Homemakers club registered to attend the course at College Park, June 17, at the meeting of the club last evening at the home of Mrs. G. R. Goiday. All reservations must be made with Mrs. Goiday before June 12.

Plans were completed for a covered dish supper to be held at 5:30 o'clock June 25 at the home of Mrs. Earl Smith, 600 Central avenue.

Members voted to hold the July meeting at Constitution park and it will include a Vesper service and refreshments.

Mrs. William Straw was appointed chairman, with the following assistants: Mrs. R. A. Ambuster, Mrs. Thomas Boyle, Mrs. W. H. Derrick, Mrs. C. S. Gracy, Mrs. Walter Herboldsheim, Mrs. Lester Hendrick, Mrs. E. P. Fagan, Mrs. Wesley C. Light, Mrs. Sheridan Twissell, Mrs. Pearl McDonald, Mrs. Charles Stottler, Mrs. E. V. Covic, Mrs. F. W. Growden, Mrs. William C. McDermott, Mrs. Ella Klavuhn, Miss Georgia Klavuhn, Mrs. Earl Melly, Mrs. Percy Sowers, Mrs. Thomas R. Hoyer, Mrs. Edith Reich, Mrs. Mary Trussell, Mrs. Roy Franklin, Mrs. Walter Hynes, Mrs. John Winter and Miss Madeline Whant.

"Defense of Democracy through the Home" was the subject of Mrs. A. R. Gerdeman's peace lecture.

The members participated in a discussion of food preservation and Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, displayed a new type of glass jar for canning, with the glass top, which clips on to conserve metal.

Mrs. Straw displayed second lieutenant gold bars in the army insignias roll call. Mrs. W. O. Wolford reported on the Allegheny County Executive meeting. Mrs. Carl Sacks, art appreciation chairman, displayed several pieces of antique glassware, owned by Mrs. Charles Brant and a colorful crocheted rug made by Mrs. Thomas Boyle.

Twenty-five members attended and the following visitors, Miss Violet McElfish, Mrs. Rachael James and Miss Dorothy Klemm.

Supper Will Be Given for Choir

A supper will be given at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in Emmanuel Episcopal parish house, for members of the church choir.

Mrs. John Bestwick is chairman of arrangements; other members of the committee are Mrs. Franklin W. Kremer, Miss Angela Matthal and Miss Mary Lou Dunn.

ENSIGN EARLE WEDS

Ensign and Mrs. George H. Earle, IV, are shown as they left St. Paul's church, Philadelphia, after they were wed. The bridegroom is a son of Pennsylvania's former governor and his bride is the former Mary Sharpless Pearson, of Chestnut Hill, Pa.

Emmanuel Circles To Hold Luncheon Meetings in Fall

The meetings of the circles of Emmanuel Episcopal church will be held in the form of luncheon-meetings next fall, members decided at the meeting of the Emmanuel Guild yesterday at the parish house.

Plans were also made for reorganization of the circles and the leaders will be appointed by Mrs. John Bestwick, president, some time next month.

LaVale Girl Scouts Add Two Members

Two girls were invested in Girl Scout Troop No. 6 and received their pins at the meeting of the troop Monday evening at the LaVale Firemen's hall. They were Laura Browne and Eloise Jewell. Miss Florence Ann Schlott, executive secretary, was in charge of the ceremony.

Under the direction of the leaders, Mrs. Harry Smith and Mrs. Claude Twigg the members prepared and served dinner and had a birthday cake in honor of Lou Ann Wright. Other members present were Ruth McCormick, Juanita Lookabaugh, Vivian Smith, Elizabeth Beie, Wilma Breese, Dorothy Fisher, Nancy Claycomb, Flo Ann Claycomb, Mary Margaret Lear, Joanne Smith and Jean Snyder. Members not invested included Helene Beale, Myrna Mace and Winifred Miller.

Dr. Frank Wilson Discusses Radium In Talk at "Y"

Local Surgeon Addresses Members of Y.M.C.A. Ladies Auxiliary

Dr. Frank M. Wilson was the guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Central Y. M. C. A. yesterday in the club rooms of the Y. Mrs. George N. Phillippi introduced Dr. Wilson, who spoke on "Radium."

Dr. Wilson traced the history of the discovery of radium, explained its uses in modern medicine and also recounted some of its industrial uses. Surgeons today, he explained, use radium for many other things than the treatment of cancer, although to the average person the words "radium" and "cancer" are almost synonymous.

A very rare element, and one that is difficult to obtain and equally expensive, it is one of the most powerful and lethal materials ever discovered by the physician. But to an experienced surgeon, who knows and understands it, radium has been a blessing, has saved many lives and has stopped much suffering. But when used or handled by persons who do not thoroughly understand its various qualities, radium can be almost as great a destroyer as some of the maladies it cures.

Dr. Wilson's talk was highly informative. It was evident to his audience that he has made a long and thorough study of the subject.

Miss Wilma Ryan spoke on the 4-H club work and the various prizes she won including a trip to the 4-H Congress in Chicago, last year. She told of the highlights of her trip including the trip itself which was her first train ride.

William H. Lewis, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. invited the auxiliary to spend June 25 at the Y camp on the South Branch. Final business for the season was completed. Miss Ada Miller social chairman, was in charge of the luncheon which was attended by 100 members.

Church Group Meets

The final meeting until September of the Woman's Association of the First Presbyterian church was held Monday evening in the lecture hall. Mrs. Peter G. Ervin spoke of her experiences and the program at the Quadrennial convention of the Presbyterian Women's Association of the United States, held recently in Atlantic City.

Mrs. A. B. Storey led the devotionals and Miss Virginia Robinson and Miss Margaret Wolfe reported on the Young People's conference. A covered dish supper was served preceding the meeting, with seventy members attending.

LaVale Couple Will Observe Thirty-fifth Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Klosterman, LaVale, will celebrate their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary tomorrow. The celebration will begin with a High Mass at 8 o'clock in St. Peter and Paul Catholic church, with the Rev. Father Boniface, O. F. M. Cap., officiating, and will culminate with a family supper at the home at 5 o'clock in the evening.

The late Rev. Father Killian, O. F. M. Cap., officiated at the ceremony thirty-five years ago in St. Peter and Paul church. Mrs. Klosterman is the former Miss Frances Helmstetter.

Ursuline Graduates To Hear Frostburg Priest Tonight

The Rev. Dominic Bonomo, St. Michael's church, Frostburg, will be the guest speaker at the dinner to be given by members of the Graduating class of Ursuline Academy at 7 o'clock this evening at the Clary Club.

Mayor Thomas F. Conlon will be toastmaster. Approximately 200 guests are expected at the novelty dance which will be held following the dinner. Jay Van's orchestra will play from 9 to 1 o'clock.

Deaconesses of First Baptist Are Feted

Mrs. Edgar M. Matthews entertained the Deaconesses of the First Baptist church, Monday evening, at the home of her father in Oldtown.

Following the business meeting a prayer meeting was held with Mrs. E. W. Saylor leading the devotions. A social hour after which refreshments were served concluded the evening.

Guests present were the Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Saylor, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Little, Mrs. S. N. Athey, Mrs. Virgil Rice, Mrs. Elias Gatehouse, Mrs. A. T. Marston, Mrs. Barbara Rexford, Mrs. Richard Matlock, Mrs. Macy Herpich, Mrs. William Goodwin, Edgar Matthews and Emory S. Hartley.

Local Man Will Wed Pennsylvania Girl

Miss Henrietta Hacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Hacker, Munhall, Pa., will become the bride of Lieut. Martin Luther Brotemarkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Roland Brotemarkle, 702 Oldtown road, Saturday.

The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 p. m. in the First Presbyterian church of Homestead, Pa.

Lieut. Brotemarkle is a graduate of Pennsylvania avenue high school and the University of Maryland, where he is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. At present he is stationed at Fort McCallan, Ala.

Personals

Miss Patricia Brett, student at St. Joseph's college, Emmitsburg, will arrive this evening to spend the summer vacation with her mother, Mrs. Sue McEvoy Brett, 220 Washington street.

Mrs. Lee S. Pancake, 315 Greene street, and Miss Mary Alice Long, Washington D. C., left yesterday by motor for California for a two-month vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Hadra, Philadelphia, spent the weekend with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hadra, 515 Rose Hill avenue. Miss Anna Rose Hadra returned to Philadelphia with them.

Mrs. Otis Carr returned last evening to New York City after spending the weekend with her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Arnold Kight, Grand avenue, and her aunt, Mrs. A. H. Northcraft, Cecelia street. Mrs. Mildred Farrell and daughter, Patricia, and Miss Ethel Cornwell, have returned to Baltimore after attending the graduation of their niece, Miss Mildred Webber from Frostburg State Teachers college.

Appointment of Counsel for Indigent Person Held Unnecessary in Md. Case

Supreme Court Upholds Court of Appeals in Important Action.

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP)—The Supreme Court, upholding a decision of the Maryland court of appeals, has ruled that appointment of counsel to represent an indigent person in a state court is not necessarily required by the constitution. The court's ruling was rendered in a decision denying the release of Smith Betts from the Maryland penitentiary on a writ of habeas corpus. The Maryland court of appeals previously had rejected Betts' application for release and he appealed to the Supreme Court.

Betts, who was sentenced by the circuit court of Carroll county, Maryland, to eight years' imprisonment for robbery, contended that before his trial he had asked and had been denied appointment of counsel to represent him.

Three Justices Dissent. In a 5 to 3 decision rendered by Justice Roberts, the court held that there was no "inexorable command" in the constitution that a defendant must be represented by counsel to obtain a fair trial. Justices Black, Douglas and Murphy dissented.

Betts' counsel had argued that the Sixth amendment to the constitution required appointment of competent counsel to represent indigent persons in federal courts.

Assistance of counsel for the defendant in all criminal prosecutions is provided by this amendment.

However, the Supreme Court has held that the "Bill of Rights"—composed of the first ten amendments—applies to the federal government alone and does not affect state governments.

Betts' attorneys, Jesse Slingluff, Jr. and G. Van Velsor Wolf, also contended that appointment of counsel in state courts was required by the fourteenth amendment.

Amendment Quoted. This amendment provides that no state is deprived any person of "life, liberty or property, without due process of law."

The high court held: The fourteenth amendment prohibits the conviction and incarceration of one whose trial is offensive to the common fundamental ideas of fairness and right, and while want of counsel in a particular case may result in a conviction lacking in such fundamental fairness, we cannot say that the amendment embodies an inexorable command that no trial for any offense, or in any court, can be fairly conducted and justice accorded a defendant who is not represented by counsel."

Walsh Represents State. William C. Walsh, Maryland attorney general, who represented the state in the case, asserted:

"The appointment of counsel by a state court, where the prisoner is indigent and unable to procure counsel, is a necessary element of due process of law only to the extent that a fair and just hearing would be thwarted by the failure to appoint counsel."

Betts had appealed to the high court after Chief Judge Carroll T. Bond of the Maryland court had declined to release him from the state penitentiary.

Betts' case filed against Warden Patrick J. Brady of the state penitentiary, was argued before the high court in April.

"In the great majority of the states," Justice Roberts said, "it has been the considered judgment of the people, their representatives and their courts that appointment of counsel is not a fundamental right, essential to a fair trial. On the contrary, the matter has generally been deemed one of legislative policy."

"In the light of this evidence in the fourteenth amendment obligates the states, whatever may be their views, to furnish counsel in every such case. Every court has power, if it deems proper, to appoint counsel where the course seems to be required in the interest of fairness."

"The practice of the courts of Maryland gives point to the principle that the states should not be strait-jacketed in this respect, by a construction of the fourteenth amendment. Judge Bond's opinion states, and counsel at the bar confirmed the fact, that in Maryland the usual practice is for the defendant to waive a trial by jury. This the petitioner did in the present case. Such trials, as Judge Bond remarks, are much more informal than jury trials and it is obvious that the judge can much better control the course of the trial and is in a better position to see impartial justice done than when the formalities of a jury trial are involved."

ODT Considering Transportation Problem in Md.

Getting Men To Work May Be Difficult as Tires Wear Out

BALTIMORE, June 2. (AP)—W. Frank Roberts, wartime transportation committee chairman, says the work of his committee is in line with a report by Charles L. Dearing, of the Office of Defense Transportation, suggesting the problem of transportation in Maryland would be especially difficult when the tire shortage became greater.

Transportation of workers in war industries in the future, when automobiles tires will be exhausted, was being given attention by the committee, Roberts announced.

He said a plan was being worked out now to change the hours at which school children in the city and nearby counties attended school. The plan would free cars and busses to carry war workers at hours when the school children were not being transported, he contended.

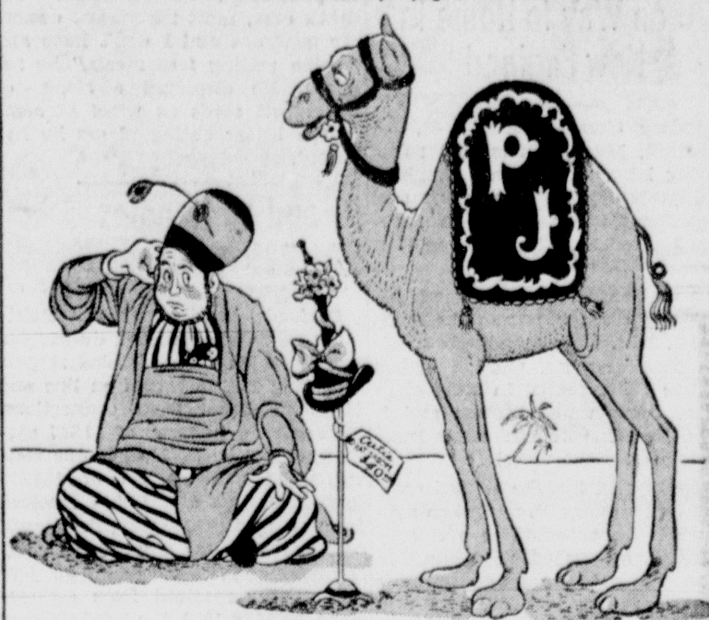

The school plan will not go into effect until next fall. Solution of the problem of transporting workers to the Martin aircraft plant, Roberts said, lay in a combination of railroad and bus transportation. He explained a factor in the Martin situation would be a decision by the ODT as to whether steel for additional railroad tracks or rubber for more busses could be supplied more easily.

Home ownership is considerably higher in the United States than in any other country.

Young Children Do Not Always Prove Discreet

Busybodies Often Take Advantage of Innocent Youngsters

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.
Every family has its secrets which consist of little things they say among themselves, which by others could not always accurately be understood.

Adolescent children who have shared the family's pride and have acquired loyalty to the family group do not divulge these secrets. Often, little remarks are made which it is understood are not to be repeated outside the home. In a well-ordered home, where the family unity has been well cultivated, there is no need to caution, "Don't say this to anyone."

Younger children may not always prove discreet. They have not had enough experience to be able to see the value of cautious secrecy. But very often they are expected to observe practices of grown-ups in these matters and, when brought to task for alleged violation of the family confidence, are surprised to learn they had offended.

We parents should not expect too much; when the young child does repeat something which brings us embarrassment, quietly explain to him that it is not the right thing to do. But avoid saying—"I guess we will not dare to tell about everything before you." Such a remark to a child is very bad since it makes him feel he is a kind of family outcast and that interesting things will go on which he will not be allowed to hear.

Advantages Taken. Meddlesome maids and other busybodies take advantage of innocent children by questioning them concerning private matters of the family. To keep children five or six years of age from divulging family secrets, under such conditions, is almost impossible.

As a rule however, most of the embarrassments to parents from the young child's telling things, comes when he unwittingly repeats uncomplimentary remarks he has heard uttered about some familiar person. All such humiliations could be avoided if parents made a strict rule never to speak unkindly about any absent person. How wonderful we would be if we literally lived up to such a rule!

The moment we say anything disparaging about an absent person, and tell the child not to repeat it, we are doubling our offense to manners and morality. We have been unethical in making the unkind remark, and we have openly announced to the child that we were doing something wrong as we commanded him to help shield us.

McCormick Urges Compliance with Gas Regulations

And State Administrator Warns of Penalties for Violations

BALTIMORE, June 2 (AP)—An appeal for compliance with the gasoline rationing regulations has been coupled with a warning of the penalties provided for non-compliance.

State OPA Administrator Leo H. McCormick said inspectors were conducting tests throughout the state to uncover violations and added the law would be rigorously enforced against the minority of willful violators.

He pointed out the violators were liable to a $10,000 fine, ten years in prison and a prohibition against selling any rationed goods.

Despite reports that gasoline bootlegging was widespread—particularly after many gasoline stations in Baltimore and other cities went "dry"—McCormick said the state OPA office believed the violations were not widespread.

Received Complaints

He said the state office had received some telephone complaints that filling station operators were selling gas to "people they knew" without punching the rationing card or punching less than the required number.

One of many unofficial stories had it that a motorist went into his usual filling station and was asked if he wanted a tankful—without any punches on his ticket. "Look," the dealer is said to have explained, "I just have so much gasoline to sell. The sooner I sell it, the sooner I can go fishing."

McCormick contended, in an official statement, that patriotism required compliance.

He said "he was sure no one in Maryland would desire to motor about the country if he realized he was using gasoline that is being shipped here in cars and rail lines choked with war materials, especially if he knew that the transportation of their gasoline was tying up transportation of war-essential materials and causing the deaths of sailors on torpedoed, blazing tankers along the coast."

He said the state office would provide all dealers next week with a set of regulations and a letter requesting their cooperation in complying strictly with these regulations.

He added he saw the justice of the argument presented by Baltimore filling station operators that the flat fifty per cent reduction in the gasoline, based on last year's use was unfair to them. The operators contend the influx of defense workers make a 50 per cent reduction a far greater one in the Baltimore Metropolitan area. And, they continued, defense workers use their cars more than the residents in non-defense areas.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

AS TIBBY opened the tiny box from the jeweler's, her heart beat rapidly, pounding against her ribs. This might have been caused by anticipation as to what the box would reveal. A girl surely should feel all fluttery upon first viewing her engagement ring. Or it might have been apprehension, since Tibby's emotions seemed composed more of anxiety than joy.

They changed—whatever these emotions had been—to amazement as she caught her breath and gazed at the beautiful ring that rested in its white satin inclosure. Tibby had never seen such a magnificent ring. It was an enormous, flawless pearl surrounded by sapphires and set in an exquisite mounting of platinum. Tibby dared not even try to surmise how much it had cost, a king's ransom in her eyes.

She did not—as might have been expected, had she been that flustered girl whose rapid heart spelled joy—slip it on her finger to hold it off, twisting her hand, the better to see how it would look and feel. She could not imagine such a ring on her plain little hand, a hand that bore a few freckles from the sun and wind, and blunt fingers that, although carefully tended, did not flash bright polish of some fashionable shade. That was the sort of hand, long, scarlet-tipped, tapering fingers, soft and white, that should set off the magnificence of such a ring, a hand like Steena's, for instance, a hand coached in graceful gestures and attitudes that would be content to preserve its softness with lotions and gloves, to lie folded upon a silken lap. It should not be a plain little brown hand that weathered frost and sun, was indifferent to callouses and blisters. A ring, such as this, would be inconsistent upon her hand; it would not look as if it belonged there at all. It would be heavy and uncomfortable, as well as out of place.

Oh, dear, why had Wayne bought such a ring! Couldn't he see that Tibby never would be happy wearing it? Didn't he realize how unsuitable it was for her? She felt ungrateful, wretched, but that was the way it was, although she supposed she not only would have to wear it, but she would have to pretend to like it, to be simply wild about it, in fact. There was a note with the tiny box, a tiny card in a tiny envelope, of the sort the jeweler would supply. On it Wayne had scribbled a hasty line. "My sweet, I would prefer to put this on your finger myself, but I must be away for a few days. Please wear it all the time. With my love."

It was signed with his initials, W. C., as he always signed all office notations and bulletins. They were big bold initials that signified their importance even in their brevity, as did the accompanying messages which were commands to be carried.

"Australian day," observed annually on that continent, celebrates the arrival of the First Fleet and establishment of settlement at Sydney, Jan. 26, 1788.

The fact that in New Mexico, Indian pottery was interred with the dead, accounts for the abundance of pre-historic pottery found there today.

lingering answer to this gift; her pride demanded that. She would have to show him that she did not care that he had written, in those few hastily scribbled lines, that everything was over forever between them.

She went to the corner drug store, not taking time to change from her uniform, since she was driven to do something so quickly, in her bitter disappointment and despair. Steena did not call it heart break; she was too angry and proud for that. She would get even with Wayne Courtwright if it were the last thing she ever did, for letting her think there had been hopes that that gift might have been a solitaire, for taking her out so many evenings, for choosing her as the company's publicity hostess, for having kissed her and told her how beautiful she was . . . yes, for breaking her heart.

Steena knew that she loved him, now that she had lost him. It was Wayne whose loss she minded, not the loss of all his money, the things he could have given her. Millions were not the most important thing, after all. They were nice to have, but Steena knew now, as she dialed the number of the clinic where she hoped to reach young Dr. Dare to ask him to come out this evening, that even without all his riches Wayne Courtwright was the one, the only one for her.

"May I speak with Dr. Dare, please? It is VERY important." A matter of life and death, her hammering heart might have tacked on, although not the sort of life-and-death matter that might have been expected. "I love you, Wayne—I let you know it—you made me think you cared for me—and now you say it is all over," she thought.

"Here is a little farewell gift, my beloved," for so Wayne had written, although not in those exact words—a little remembrance to hang around your fair neck to remind you of the hours we spent together, of me . . .

"Hello, is that you, Tommy?" Steena's voice, if her heart was bleeding, sounded as cool as usual, as determined. "I want you to come out tonight. Yes, it's very important. Yes, I have something to tell you. Yes, it's what you want to hear." So many yeses, but he would not give her time to explain, because she supposed he carried a bleeding heart as well as she. "Yes, Tibby's okay, she's fine. Yes, it's about her, in a way—about the plan I spoke of the last time. But I can't tell you over the wire, Tommy. You'll come? Suppose you meet me here, in the corner drug store, at 8 o'clock." She must see him before Tibby did, even for a moment. She must MAKE him do what she wanted, carry through her plan.

She had to make him, she thought as she hung up. That would be the only possible way out now, the only means to mend her heart.

One of the most popular groups is a goodlooking waterfall dresser, spacious chest of drawers with a metal bed, good coil spring and mattress. The entire group sells for but $79.50. Here is a complete, comfortable bedroom that will enable you to greatly increase the family income if you furnish the extra room. It is but one of twenty-five different suggestions which Beneman's can now give you to convert your spare bedroom to accommodate roomers.

A Living Room For $69.50

If you do not want to spend much on your living room, yet want it smartly done, Beneman's suggest you select a special value in a 3-piece solid maple group at $69.50.

Decorate With A New Rug

Fine wool rugs are soon going to be mighty scarce. Most of the rug mills are working exclusively on work for Uncle Sam and materials which go into rugs are rapidly disappearing. At Beneman's there is still a vast selection and, of course, excellent values.

See The Solid Maple Group

Still available is that sensational solid hard rock maple bedroom group of dresser, mirror, chest on chest and bed at $79.95. It is unquestionably the most for your money in a bedroom group you have ever been able to obtain. (As featured in "Life").

For Day And Night Use

For the guests this summer or to provide furnishings for an extra room the studio couch is ideal. It gives you a sofa in the daytime, twin or double beds at night. You will find some excellent values, too, now at Beneman's in most attractive designs in both studios and sofa beds.

Gift For The June Bride

A gift dear to the heart of every girl is a Lane Cedar Chest. Especially for the graduate or June bride, there is a popular waterfall design Lane Cedar Chest 48" in width with the patented concealed tray at a saving of $10.00. The chest costs you but $29.75 on terms.

Infant Receives Cuts about Face In Odd Accident

Condition of Baby Who Fell from Bed upon Nursing Bottle Is Good

A seven months old baby, Ronald Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson, 404 Columbia street, was admitted to Allegheny hospital at 10 o'clock yesterday morning for lacerations of his face, suffered when he rolled from bed and fell on his nursing bottle which broke under him.

Hospital attaches said the baby's condition was good although he is suffering from lacerations of his lower lip, right cheek and the right side of his head. The cuts were caused by glass from the broken bottle.

Dwight Airesman, 18, LaVale, was admitted for treatment after fracturing his right ankle while roller skating about 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

William Michaels, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Michaels, Baltimore pike, was treated for lacerations of three fingers, suffered when he caught his hand in a lawn mower. The child was injured Monday night but was not treated until yesterday morning.

Miss Elizabeth Mellott, 64, Valley road, was treated Monday afternoon after being bitten on the left thigh by a dog.

Chris Avoli, 65, 121 North Mechanic street, was admitted Sunday night for treatment of a fractured right wrist, suffered when one of his crutches broke and he fell on the street. He has been crippled for several years.

William Murphy, 40, 215 Knox street, was treated Monday morning for a cut on his left thumb inflicted while he was handling a penknife.

Decision

while his uncle prepared to put water in the radiator, Beachy left for work at the Celanese plant a few minutes later. In some unknown manner Broadwater was subsequently crushed between the truck and the house. The ground of recovery by his administratrix in her original suit was danger from a defective brake.

Beachy, who is Mrs. Garlitz's son-in-law, told an investigator of the insurance company, three days after the accident, "I have never had any trouble with the emergency brake holding while unloading coal on a steep bank. The truck never drifted away from me before." This was part of statement he signed for the investigator.

When called as a witness in the original suit against him, Beachy testified "You take with that load on, no emergency brake will hold." The brake had previously flown loose with him, he said. "It pretty near caught me over at the mine myself (about two weeks previously). I was over at Mr. Bowman's getting a load of coal and that starter would make a funny noise and wouldn't take hold for me. I stepped on the starter and it locked and I opened the door, went around to check it. It started and the truck came back and almost caught me."

Confirmed Statement

Beachy conceded that the investigation put down in the written statement what he, Beachy, had said, and his explanations of the contradiction with his testimony differed somewhat and he finally came to, "I don't know." He also acknowledged that he had never told the insurance company's attorney that he was going to change his statement.

In view of this contradiction the court found lack of co-operation by the insured which deprives him of his insurance protection. Judgment was reversed without a new trial and costs.

The case was argued by Elmer A. Gower and William A. Gunter for the insurance company and William L. Wilson, Jr., and Edward J. Ryan for Mrs. Garlitz.

A number of local attorneys and insurance company representatives have shown interest in this case. One of them emphasized the point, while commenting on the case, that persons who have insurance must, to protect themselves fully under their policies, as a general thing, co-operate with the insurance company.

TODAY'S VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

COMBATING PLANT PLAGUES IN VICTORY GARDEN

Lettuce, like many other garden vegetables, are frequently attacked by aphids, or green lice that feed upon the leaves. To control these sucking pests spray thoroughly with pyrethrum (killing the insects) as it kills by paralyzing them.

METHOD OF SUPPORTING CLIMBING BEANS

As shown in the drawing, slugs are fond of lettuce plants and can be discouraged by placing a circle of lime, soot or fine coal ashes about the plants.

Many gardeners gather innumerable slugs at night with the aid of a flashlight. Slugs, when not attacking the plants, can usually be located hiding under loose boards, flat stones, sticks, flower pots or even under mulching materials.

State Teachers College Summer Classes Will Begin June 22

Spanish Course Will Be Added To New Schedule

Dr. Albert S. Cook Scholarship Loan Is Available for Freshmen

FROSTBURG, June 2—One of the outstanding features of State Teachers college summer school, scheduled to open June 22, will be a course in Spanish, offered by Miss Josephine L. Wilson, of Geneva college, Beaver Falls, Pa. This course, according to President John L. Dunkley, is in keeping with the "good neighbor" policy of the Americas and will be open to the general public.

The Dr. Albert S. Cook scholarship loan of $100 for freshmen is also available and interested persons are being advised to make application for the benefits of the loan to the president of the college.

The summer school is part of the accelerated program of the college that makes it possible for high school graduates to complete four years of work in three years at the college with three summer sessions. More than forty experienced teachers have already enrolled for the summer session.

Couple Steals Ten Cars in Effort To Get Married

BALTIMORE, June 2 (AP)—An unsuccessful elopement punctuated by the theft of ten cars ended in sentences to penal institutions today for a seventeen-year-old youth and a sixteen-year-old girl, both of Seneca Falls, N. Y.

Assistant State's Attorney Thomas N. Biddison told Judge J. Abner Saylor that Kenneth Saunders and Jennie Szansky stole the cars in a futile attempt to get to South Carolina where they were to be married.

Saunders was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and the girl was committed to the House of Good Shepherd until she is twenty-one. They pleaded guilty to the larceny of an automobile here.

Biddison told Judge Saylor the couple admitted the car stolen in Baltimore was one of eight stolen to get them from Seneca Falls to Baltimore. They added two more car thefts to the list before they were arrested in Virginia, he said.

They left Seneca Falls May 6. Biddison added, in a stolen car in Amsterdam, they abandoned that one and stole another, he continued. They repeated the process until a minor accident proved their undoing in Virginia May 22, he concluded.

OPA Ruling Ignored In Suit in Court, Firm Contends

One of the first cases involving ceiling price regulations of the OPA was heard yesterday in trial magistrates' court.

The Hawkson Tread Service contended that maximum prices to be charged were not observed. Aaron Miller, a farmer, received a judgment of $13 against the firm for loss of a 700 by 15 tire which was stolen after Miller left it at the firm's plant for retreading.

Officials of the firm contend the worn casing was worth $1.50 under the OPA ruling, and that Miller is a farmer, entitled to buy a new tire, which is valued at $17.45. The theft of the worn casing from the retreading plant was reported to police.

Patrick Horgan, the FBI agent who read the document, said Gros made it voluntarily shortly after his arrest on January 26.

Gros was quoted as saying that in 1939 he became "dissatisfied with the way things were going in Germany" and "in order to get out of Germany and come to the United States I accepted my uncle's proposition and joined the German Military Intelligence."

(He identified his uncle as Hans Robert, then a major in German Military Intelligence.)

"I was requested to sign a paper stating that I would not disclose any plans, maps or figures I obtained, under penalty of death."

Sent Newspaper Clippings

"My uncle also told me that in the event of the United States entering the war, Germany had a secret treaty with the Imperial Japanese Navy staff and general staff and that I should represent the military intelligence of Germany in co-operation with the Japanese intelligence department."

Gros denied, however, that he contacted "any Japanese in California or any other place."

His statement said he did not do anything detrimental to the United States.

It stated he sent newspaper clippings about living conditions, strikes, unemployment, airplane production and "anything of interest" to his uncle, but that all such information was available in Germany through newspapers and magazines.

"As the year advances all German cities, harbors and centers of war production will be subjected to an ordeal the like of which never has been experienced by any country in continuity, severity or magnitude."

British Loss 35 Planes

The communicate of the air ministry identified the industrial Ruhr generally, "including Essen," as the theater of the assault and while the Germans did not mention Essen they did report Duisburg and Oberhausen as among those raided.

With Essen itself, these cities form a great production triangle in the Ruhr.

While the main force of the British attack was being centered in the Essen area, other squadrons smashed at the enemy's airdromes over great areas of Germany.

Nassau Riots Are Reported Checked

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—The state department received word tonight that labor disturbances in Nassau, Bahamas, which started yesterday, continued until the arrival of military police at noon today but that "no further rioting was anticipated."

The department's advice said that "the rioters smashed automobiles and shop windows and looted freely on Bay street," the main thoroughfare of the island capital. The department issued the following statement:

"The American consul at Nassau, John W. Dye, reported to the state department that on June 1, laborers from the local airfield struck for higher wages and rioted. The rioters smashed automobiles and shop windows and looted freely on Bay street."

"The consul reported at noon today that there still were some disturbances this morning but by noon the military police had arrived and no further rioting was anticipated."

Fail To Capture Tobruk

The communicate disclosed for the first time that the Germans on the opening night of their offensive may 26 attempted to land a sea borne cooperating force north of Acroma, some fifteen miles from Tobruk, but the Royal Navy drove off the flotilla.

Auchinleck's control over the battlefield, the capture of two of Rommel's largest repair units, and the splendid performance of new British heavy anti-tank guns and the twenty-eight-ton United States tanks all were factors of great cheer to the Britons.

Control of the battlefield enabled the Eighth Army to salvage a large proportion of the damaged vehicles, using perhaps the United States service troops who are in Egypt for just such a purpose.

The German repair units which were seized were reported unofficially to have restored at least 300 tanks which otherwise would have fallen to the British.

One thing appeared certain: the Axis force composed of the German Fifteenth and Twenty-first and the Italian One-hundred Thirty-second Ariete armored divisions and a German and an Italian motorized division, perhaps 75,000 seasoned veterans in all, had failed to capture Tobruk as Adolf Hitler had ordered, and were paying an enormous price in machines and men in the scorching heat and swirling sand.

Auchinleck, however, appeared intent upon destroying the foe rather than advancing immediately.

Commodities for imports are listed in three groups, with strategic materials first, essential civilian commodities second, and items of less importance third.

No person, except government agencies, may import items on any of the three lists without first obtaining specific permission from WPB. The board will be guided in granting permission by the relative importance of the goods involved.

After arrival in this country, items on list one may be sold only to government agencies, or to others upon specific WPB authority. This is substantially the present method of handling these imports.

Items on the second list may be sold without restriction, insofar as the import order is concerned. These domestic uses are controlled by other WPB orders except where control is not considered necessary.

Imports may continue to be made on existing contracts for strategic and essential civilian commodities, but contracts for articles classed as least essential will not be allowed to stand; specific authorization for these imports must be obtained from all items in the third group, regardless of existing contracts.

The items on list 3 include certain animal and vegetable fats, canned and corned beef, pickled and cured beef and veal, chicle, cocoa beans, coffee, raw cotton, cotton waste, butter, cheese, eggs, condensed milk, certain fabrics and fibers, bananas, grapes, melons, peaches, pears, corn, rye, certain grain preparations, horsehides, iodine and nitrates.

Bucs Suffer Tenth Straight Setback -- Medwick Extends Streak

PITTSBURGH, June 2 (P)—The Brooklyn Dodgers went on a rampage today to scuttle the Pittsburgh Pirates 17 to 2 with a twenty-hit barrage while Rookie Les Weber subdued the Buccaners with five safeties.

It was the tenth straight setback for the Pirates and their sixteenth in eighteen games extending back to May 14 when they cruised into Brooklyn as a challenging second place club and dropped an entire three-game series.

Pete Reiser made five consecutive hits—a home run, three doubles and a single—while sliding into the plate in the seventh inning and retired from the contest without getting a chance at the modern major league record of six hits in succession in one game.

All the other Dodgers except Weber and Shortstop Peewee Reese also were relieved during the contest as Manager Leo Durocher turned the affair over to substitutes in the late innings. Augie Galan, just recovered from a serious case of influenza, replaced Reiser in center field and made one hit in his only turn at bat.

The Brooklyn assault, good for a total of thirty-two bases, started with a three-run blast in the first inning against Lefty Aldon Wilkie, who was shelled from the mound in the third when the Dodgers staged one of their two four-run frames.

The offensive continued against John Lanning and Ken Jungles and the Dodgers scored in every inning except the second and ninth.

Joe Medwick extended his hitting streak to eleven games. The box score:

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, June 2 (Wide World)—Caught short:

That was quite a sendoff Jimmy Fox for the American League, with seven clubs waiving good-bye. The transaction sending Jimmy to the Chicago Cubs provided another illustration of the porous qualities of the waiver rule. According to the rule the other American League clubs could claim him for the $7,500 waiver price, and Jimmy Fox is worth $7,500 to any club just to sit on the bench and look mean.

Tom Yawkey probably told the other club owners he had a chance to get a nice price for Fox from the Cubs, and if the other clubs would waive on him he'd return the favor some day. If they refused, he'd just withdraw the waiver, so all the other clubs could do without endangering possible future deals of their own was to agree.

The rule, it seems, was made to be broken by gentlemen's agreements. And National League managers who protest ball and strike decisions by addressing their remarks to their players instead of the umpires are ousted for "violating the spirit of the rule."

What's sauce for the club owners is just a lot of applesauce for the managers.

The Naval Air Station at Jacksonville, Fla., is pulling for George Barnshaw to land a place on the All-Star service team which will play the major leagues July 7. Barnshaw, once one of Connie Mack's mound stars, is coaching the air station team and doing a right good job in pitching also. The Cincinnati Reds will conduct twenty-six five-day camps in the Far West this summer to uncover new talent. And from the way the Reds have been knocking themselves out of action, they probably need some.

Speaking of camps, the Brooklyn Dodgers got five rookies from one high school in tryouts at Ebbets field last year. The five, all from Grover Cleveland High of Brooklyn, are Tom Gabrielli, Lou Ruchser and Bruno Laurenti, all with the Ocean club now, and Ed Badke and Mike Santora, with Johnstown. Sam Snead couldn't have given himself a better sendoff into the navy than he did in winning the P.G.A. but it ruins the talking point of all the guys who said Snead just didn't have what it takes in a pinch to win the big ones. What it takes is ability, steady nerves and the breaks.

It may or may not mean anything, but in a seven-day stretch ending last Sunday the American League scored 354 runs and the National League 230. The Phils had a grand total of eleven. National League fans will attribute the difference in league scoring to the fact the National League pitching is better. American League fans will claim it isn't a question of pitching, but the fact the National League can't hit a lick. We're as neutral as a foggy day. Headline in Cincinnati Red publicity pamphlet: "Improved Phils meet Redlegs Wednesday." Well, we said it was a publicity pamphlet. Anyway, maybe the Phils are improved. They only lost a game by one run the other day.

"BIRDIE" TEBBETTS, DETROIT CATCHER, SEEKS TO ENLIST

DETROIT, June 2 (P)—Major Frank Denny of the Army Procurement division disclosed today that George (Birdie) Tebbetts, 27-year-old catcher of the Detroit Tigers, had applied for enlistment in the Army air corps. Tebbetts has completed the physical examination, he said, and the application has gone to Washington.

Tebbetts underwent the physical tests at Selfridge field, Mich., yesterday before the Tigers headed East for a fourteen-game American League road trip, the officer said. If accepted, he gave no hint when the ball player would be called.

Tebbetts is unmarried but has had 3-A Draft classification because of the dependency of his mother, who lives at Nashua, N. H.

The Tigers have one other catcher, Edward (Dixie) Parsons.

Belmont's Mark of $2,176,071 Wagered In One Day Is Record in Several Ways

By IRA WOLFERT

NEW YORK, June 2—The new record for legal gambling on a single day's races—now held by Belmont, after Churchill Downs and its Kentucky derby had held it for sixteen years—may prove to be the most consequential sporting achievement of the year. It didn't make the horses run any better but that may be due largely to the fact that $2,176,071 ain't hay. Anyway, its importance lay in another direction.

Derby Attendance Dubious

On the afternoon of the 1926 derby, the suckers bet $2,096,613 or $79,458 less than the grand total bet at Belmont Decoration day. Exactly how many there were on Churchill Downs contributing to the improvement of the breed sixteen years ago is a secret. Col. Matt Winn has always regarded the attendance figures as a private matter. Some say it is because he is a horseman and figures that only quality not quantity counts, pointing out that the milk company owns the largest stable of steeds in town without ever stirring a single sucker to commit a deuce on who will beat the nutcracker to the door.

But a few Charlies who were there that day tell me to figure the 1926 derby crowd as over 70,000. There were 51,903 at Belmont Decoration day, setting the new national betting record. This year's holiday at Belmont drew forty-two suckers more than last year's. But last year's crowd was, like Achilles, not well healed. This year's crowd was healed enough to beat the lush twenties at their joust.

The crowd conquered considerable difficulties before getting to where they could lose their money. It was believed gas rationing would keep somebody home. But he came, too. The parking lots were all jammed to capacity and the only visible effects of gas rationing were the suggestions from people who had used the train that police ought to take the license numbers of the cars there. Several men in plain clothes did take numbers, but they were working out a new system for the game.

Filled to Capacity

The dense board charge that Belmont was planning to fight off air raids with a pall of dirty water was also expected to frighten off some suckers, but if they had come they wouldn't have been able to get in anyway. The joint was so jammed that many people were unable to reach the mutual windows by post time. Those mutual windows were like the bathing beach at Coney Island. If you wanted to get there while there was still space, you had to start before you made up your mind to do so. In this emergency many stood on the grass making private bets with each other—an event occasionally classified as gambling on the green.

The year 1926 was the year of America's greatest prosperity—more widely shared, even than in 1928. Of course, in 1926, the stock market was having regular multi-million-share days and Wall street proved to be lively competition for the race tracks. In these times, the market counts a 500,000-share day as a stampede of blood to the head. Then, too, in 1926, the notion was fairly popular that a man had a chance to hold on to the money he wanted to hold on to. People have learned since and now want to burn their money before it's vice versa.

All this, certainly, must have had its part in enabling 50,000 of the modern generation to lick the fat old 70,000 of father's day in the valiant endeavor to improve the breed. And it may be borne in mind that, while gas rationing caused no visible loss to the parking lots, it did have the effect of keeping the weekend crowd close to home which is where charity begins, and by odd coincidence, the race track, too.

Stars Will Draw Fans to Benefit Golf Tournament

Corporal Jim Turnesa Added to Entry List for Hale America Open

NEW YORK, June 2 (P)—Corporal Jim Turnesa, the soldier-golfer who was the sensation of last week's P. G. A. championship before he finally succumbed to Sailor-to-Be Sam Snead in the final, was added today to the list of entries for the Hale America open golf tournament.

Invited to participate on the basis of his triumphs over top-flight pros at Atlantic City, Turnesa today telegraphed his acceptance, and added that his commanding officer at Fort Dix, N. J., also had authorized his appearance in the exhibition in connection with the sectional qualifying rounds at Bloomfield, N. J. this weekend.

Field To Be Cut to 105
Turnesa is the twenty-third player to be given a free trip into the main tournament at Chicago. Eighty other places will be decided this weekend when 584 survivors of last week's local tests will play their sectional qualifying rounds at thirteen locations. Two Canadians, Gordon Brydson and R. T. Gray, Jr., qualified at Toronto last week. The official entry list of 1,540 thus will be reduced to 105 starters in the final at Chicago's Ridgemoor club.

Carded as a wartime substitute for the abandoned National open championship and played for the benefit of the Navy Relief Society, the Hale America open has been marked by special efforts to attract spectators. Besides Turnesa, Corp. Vic Ghezzi, last year's P. G. A. champion; Paul Runyan, Jug McSpader, and Herman Barron are listed for exhibitions at Bloomfield.

Open Champion Craig Wood, Ben Hogan and Horton Smith will play at Buffalo, Bobby Jones at Atlanta, Walter Hagen, Jimmy Demaret and Denny Shute at Detroit; Byron Nelson at Cincinnati and Henry Picard at Tulsa.

Other exempt players are Sam Snead, whose entrance into the navy was postponed long enough for him to win the P. G. A. title last week; Corp. Marvin (Bud) Ward, the 1941 amateur champion; Crooner Bing Crosby, who has played many war benefit exhibitions; Gene Sarazen, Ralph Guldahl, Lawson Little, Lloyd Mangrum, Chick Evans and Jock Hutchison.

The last five were scheduled for exhibitions at the Chicago sectional test Friday and Saturday, but were released from this engagement when the district association decided not to charge admission. Snead and Ward are not expected to play even in the main tournament because of their wartime duties.

Man o' War Is One Intelligent Horse

LEXINGTON, Ky. (P)—How intelligent is Man o' War? Well, it is said that while he was in training his owner would place an article of clothing such as a hat, etc., in a corner of Man o' War's stall and that he would pick up with his teeth the article his master asked.

With the record he has compiled as a racer and a sire, plus his reportedly sound condition, it isn't too surprising that Riddle has declined all offers for Man o' War, even the cool million purportedly offered by a movie magnate.

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

The 'Umbilin' Game

It was George Low, the veteran Scot, who first called golf "the 'Umbilin' game."

Two of our greatest golfers have found that out. One is Byron Nelson, stout-hearted competitor and brilliant swinger, who dropped his P.G.A. title to Vic Ghezzi a year ago by blowing a two and one-half-foot putt. The same Byron took the same deadly cyanide route at the Seaview C. C. in Atlantic City last week against Corporal Jim Turnesa by blowing another putt estimated at fifteen or eighteen inches. This is a putting length that ordinarily would be a push-over for a 10-year-old kid or a 90-year-old veteran.

Both morbid events happened to one of the best golfers in the world. On "the umbilin' side" there is also Ben Hogan, the top campaigner of the last two years, who has yet to win a national crown. The same thing happened to Macdonald Smith, an all-time great, through twenty-five years.

In his final chance before going into the navy Sammy Snead shook the jinx loose. Swinging Sam, the Virginia stylist, is now in possession of at least one major golf championship, for the first time in his life.

No one can say when there will be another P.G.A. or another National open, so Virginia Sam barely got in under the wire with a golf swing that might easily have won two National opens and at least a couple P.G.A. crowns.

That's the way golf is. The mental, the psychological, the tension side of the game is such a big part of the whole affair that anything can happen, no matter what the odds.

The Turnesa Breaks

Corporal Jim Turnesa, a member of the famous golfing family, was the last P.G.A. sensation. Anyone who can beat Hogan and Nelson and then crowd Snead to the limit is the nonpareil upsetter of the year.

The Turnesas have had an unusual experience in the matter of short puts. A few years ago Willie Turnesa was playing Johnny Fischer in the National amateur championship at Oakmont. On the fifteenth green Fischer had a ten-inch putt to break up the match. Johnny missed it. On the seventeenth hole he missed a two-footer that would have closed out the match again.

As a result of these two blown putts Willie Turnesa went along to win the amateur championship.

In the same way Nelson had a short putt to crowd out Jim Turnesa. Nelson missed it.

So we have two of the Turnesas saved in big championship matches by missed putts that averaged little more than a foot in length. Which reminds me that I saw Harry Cooper kick away a National open crown at Oakmont in 1927 by taking three putts from three feet on the seventeenth green.

The Terrific Turnesas

You've heard of "the seven bounding Gordons," "the four marvelous Millers," etc. "The Seven Terrific Turnesas" should be added to this list.

Sixteen years ago Joe Turnesa led Bobby Jones by four strokes at Scioto with only nine holes of play left. Only a near miracle finish by Bobby during a young cyclone pulled him through. A little later on Joe Turnesa carried Walter Hagen to the thirty-sixth green in the P.G.A. final.

In 1938 Willie Turnesa came romping along to win the United States amateur title at Oakmont. Now Corp. Jim Turnesa wipes out Hogan and Nelson, two of the best, and forces Snead to the wire in the P.G.A. show.

This is the stoutest showing any single American family has made in golf.

Years ago a flock of Smith brothers—Alex, Mac, Willie and one or two more—came over from Canada to bag championships and other fast field tournaments. Alex, Mac and Willie were the strongest playing family combination. But they were all pros, while the Turnesas have given their strength to both main divisions.

And there are more Turnesas who play golf well. In more peaceful days "The Seven Terrific Turnesas" could put on a high-class strolling show around the golfing map, meeting all comers in family groups.

DON'T BE A ROBOT

SIGNALS TO your partner, with high cards and low cards, are very fine and necessary to help direct a strong defense. They are not absolute commands at any time, however. On many an occasion the partner of a signaler knows something, from seeing his own hand, which is more important to the side than anything his partner knows. In such a case, he must do what he knows is best, disregarding his partner's discard.

When West passed his partner's double on this deal, it was obviously because he thought he could beat the contract to the extent of more points than his own side could make if he bid. He was right, especially since he knew North as one of those players who will bid a very weak No Trump, but East spilled the applecart beyond repair.

After the spade A won the 3, which was led, East decided that an effort to obtain a third round ruff of a club would be the best defense, and therefore laid down the club A. Knowing what he did, and that his partner could probably win the first round of trumps, he should have disregarded the club 3 which his partner played, and should have led another club. He slavishly followed the discouraging signal, however, and led the heart 7. West won with the A and returned his club 9, expecting his partner to ruff, but instead East had another club, and the contract was made, although West took two more trump tricks.

If East had led his club 10 to the third trick, West would have won the first trump round with the heart A, and returned his third club for the ruff, which would have caused defeat of the contract, giving the pair a good instead of a bad result.

Thirty Directors Are Elected by YMCA Members

New Board Will Hold an Organization Meeting Early Next Week

Ballots in the election of a new board of directors for Central Young Men's Christian Association were tabulated yesterday evening and the new board of thirty members was announced by the Election committee.

Two different ballots were submitted, each containing thirty names. Voters were instructed to vote for fifteen names on each ballot. One ballot was sent to sustaining members obtained during the recent "Save the Y Drive," and the other was sent to the general membership.

List of Directors

The sustaining membership directors elected are:

Edmund S. Burke, president; Kelly-Springfield Tire company; Charles A. Piper, president Liberty Trust company; Edward R. Allen, personnel director, Celanese corporation; James W. Bishop, representing Sanford H. Builey, DeMolay Alumni chapter; Harvey H. Weiss, superintendent Memorial hospital; Dr. Albert C. Cook, representing All Ghan Shrine Temple; C. William Gilchrist, attorney; Dr. C. L. Owens, representing Duke Memorial Bible class; Mrs. George Philippi and Mrs. E. F. Phillips, representing the Y.M.C.A. Ladies Auxiliary; the Rev. Alfred L. Cregar, representing the Junior Association of Commerce; Roy W. Eves, representing the Baltimore and Ohio Y.M.C.A.; Dr. A. H. Hawkins, physician; Lloyd Rawlings, representing the Kiwanis club and C. Eugene Howell, local coal dealer.

Directors chosen by the general membership are:

Board Will Organize

An organized meeting of the new board will be held early next week at the Y.M.C.A., at which time officers will be elected, and a report will be made by the business secretary and the re-organization committee.

The new Y.M.C.A. board is the culmination of a plan inaugurated last fall, when a committee of local citizens was formed to forestall a mortgage foreclosure and reorganize the association. A financial campaign was held and $37,000 was contributed by individuals, firms and organizations, to liquidate indebtedness, pay past due interest and reduce the mortgage. The campaign also resulted in obtaining 140 five-year pledges of $25 each per year, known as sustaining memberships. This money is to be used semi-annually to further reduce the mortgage.

Following the campaign, a committee representing the retiring board of directors and the citizens committee, was formed to complete the reorganization. This group has adopted a new constitution and by laws; arranged for refinancing the mortgage at lower interest; made a reduction in the mortgage; cleared current indebtedness at the Y.M.C.A., and made a number of improvements.

National Authority Makes Survey of Housing Facilities

May Determine if Priorities for Construction Can Be Obtained Here

A survey of local housing facilities was made here Monday by G. Holmes Perkins, field representative of the National Housing Authority, Harold W. Smith, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, announced yesterday.

Perkins' survey was the result of a request by the chamber of commerce to determine if Cumberland can be termed a defense housing area so that priorities can be obtained here for construction purposes.

The real estate bureau and the chamber of commerce are co-operating to work out a "program economically sound" that will utilize to the best advantage the available facilities supplemented by a type of permanent construction, Smith said.

These permanent structures would eliminate the need for temporary housing facilities such as trailers, portable houses and multiple unit structures similar to those set up by the government at San Diego, Cal.

Perkins already had been given figures on the available supply of housing facilities here but he asked that further data be prepared concerning financing, contractors available for house construction and the possibilities of remodeling present buildings to provide additional apartments for which there is a demand.

When that information is available, Perkins said he would return to Cumberland to check it over.

He dined with the real estate board at noon Monday.

Piedmont Band Will Come Here For Bond Rally

Parade by Legion Musicians Will Precede Theater Party Tomorrow

A parade by the drum and bugle corps of Kelly-Mansfield Post, American Legion, of Piedmont, W. Va., will precede a combined theater and radio party in the interest of the war bond and savings stamp campaign Thursday at 9 p. m. in the Strand theater.

The party, arranged by the Allegany County War Bond Committee, is open to the public without admission charge and a number of War savings bonds will be presented as prizes.

Route of the parade of the Legionnaires is from the Algonquin hotel, Baltimore street, North Centre street, Market street, Mechanic street, Baltimore street, South George street, Harrison street to Liberty street and the Strand theater where the bandmen will be guests of the management.

Through the co-operation of The Associated Broadcasting Company, operating WTBO, and Fielding O'Keefe, manager of the Strand, the committee was able to arrange the party and program.

Allegany Band To Play

In addition to "Courageous Australia" and a number of other appropriate screen subjects, the program will be highlighted by the personal appearance of radio favorites, Salt and Peanuts. For the first time the radio program "Ethel and Albert" will be presented in person. The Allegany high school band of 100 pieces, directed by Jack Platt will furnish music and representatives of the army, navy and marine corps will also participate.

Doors will be open early and persons desiring to see the show and participate in the party are urged to be present by 8:30 p. m. The program will start exactly on time, as it is to be broadcast.

Arm Bands Arrive For 13 Civilian Defense Groups

2,265 Will Receive Insignia upon Completion of Training

Arm bands for 2,265 men and women members of civilian defense groups in Cumberland arrived yesterday at city hall and will be issued as each corps completes its training. It was announced yesterday by Vincent P. Ingram, director of civilian defense for Allegany county.

Bands for 13 Groups

One hundred fifteen staff corps members, seventy-five drivers' corps, 100 messenger corps, 100 rescue squad, 175 auxiliary police, 600 air raid wardens, 150 auxiliary firemen, 100 fire watchers, 300 demolition and clearance crews, fifty road repair crews, 100 decontamination squad members, 200 emergency food and housing members and 200 medical corps members.

Ingram said that five groups, namely, messenger corps, auxiliary police, air raid wardens road repair crews and decontamination squad have completed their training and will receive the arm bands immediately.

Staff members will complete their training Friday, June 5 at a general corps meeting scheduled for 7:30 p. m. in the city hall auditorium.

A large map of the City of Cumberland, ten feet long and eight feet wide, has been turned over to Ingram by the City Engineering department for reference in civilian defense activities here. The map, which came from Washington, D. C., in eight sections, was mounted on two boards hinged together, and will occupy a conspicuous place in the local air raid warning control center.

JURY AWARDS GARRETT COUNTY FARMER $300

Claude O. Roonbaugh, a Garrett county farmer, was awarded $300 damages by a circuit court jury yesterday, in a right-of-way case against the C. and P. Telephone company.

The case went on trial before a jury yesterday morning with Roonbaugh claiming damages of $100 a year for four years, during which period twelve poles belonging to the company stood on his property, just inside the fence. They were erected in 1938 and removed this year.

Thomas A. Gracey, attached to the Right-of-Way department of the company, testified that four years ago, Roonbaugh told him he would not object to the poles being erected "on the other side of the fence." It was also brought out at the trial that other property owners in the neighborhood granted the company permanent right-of-way for erection of poles on their properties, in exchange for nominal sums.

Edward J. Ryan represented Roonbaugh and William C. Walsh was the attorney for the telephone company.

Home Canners Must Apply for Sugar Certificates during Morning Hours

Allotment Is Pounded for Four Quarts and Additional Pound a Member

Persons desiring sugar rationing certificates for home canning must file their applications at the office of Allegany County Rationing Board No. 1-1, located on the first floor of the Union street county building, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 12 o'clock noon, it was stressed yesterday by Miles G. Thompson, office manager.

Thompson pointed out that no applications will be accepted at the office in the afternoon.

Pound for Four Quarts

Under the new regulations, home canners may obtain one pound of sugar for every four quarts of finished canned fruit, and an additional pound of sugar for each member of the family unit for the packing of preserves, jams, jellies and fruit butters during the spring canning season until July 1.

One purpose of this regulation is to encourage home canning instead of preserving, since the amount of sugar required per unit of fruit is less in canning than preserving.

The previous regulation permitted each person to obtain a total of five pounds for home canning. If this amount has been used, it must be computed in any new home canning sugar allotment.

Thompson said that an applicant planning to can thirty-two quarts of fruit will be entitled to eight pounds of sugar, or one pound for each four quarts. With an additional pound of sugar allowed for each member of the family unit, a family of five will be limited to

Eagles Install Thomas F. Baker President at Impressive Rites

State's Largest Fraternal Organization Has 1,931 Members

Thomas F. Baker was installed as worthy president of Cumberland Aerie, No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, last night at ceremonies held in the FOE hall. The local Eagles organization has the largest membership of any fraternal body in Maryland and by actual count had 1,931 paid-up members on the rolls, according to a statement read at the business session following the ceremonies last night.

Other officers installed last night by Herman L. Myers, past worthy president, were William T. Rollins, past worthy president; William H. Jenkins, worthy vice president; Edward B. Fahy, worthy chaplain; Frank C. McKnight, worthy secretary; William H. Baer, worthy treasurer; Carl C. Wagner, worthy conductor; Merle W. Lookabaugh, worthy inside guard; Elbert H. Jones, worthy outside guard; and Francis H. Schultz, worthy trustee.

Myers was assisted in the ceremonies by C. W. Rosenmarkle, H. G. Rice, P. A. Pfeiffer, John P. Harbaugh, H. P. Driver, W. C. Conley, Bernard Barnard and Julius S. Schindler. The ceremonies were attended by 250 members and refreshments were served following the meeting.

CONFER DEGREES UPON TWO LOCAL WOMEN AT HOPKINS

Two local women were among 419 students to receive diplomas at Johns Hopkins University yesterday.

The degree of Bachelor of Science was conferred upon Mrs. Helen Albright Griffin, principal of Virginia avenue school, 905 Fayette street. The degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon Miss Jane Lou Lindsay, 503 Beall street.

Formal commencement exercises were not held at the University this year. Commencement exercises and all other public functions of the university were cancelled this year because of the war and the accelerated program of study introduced as a result of the war. All diplomas are dated June 2, which is the date originally set for commencement.

Ruling in Savage Dam Suit Is Given

Commission Cannot Be Named Defendant, Appeals Court Decides

The Maryland Court of Appeals, in a recent decision, ruled that the Upper Potomac River Commission, the governmental agency in charge of constructing the Savage river dam, could not be made defendant in court actions by individuals for alleged damages developing from charges of negligence against the commission.

The ruling was made after a demurrer was filed, by counsel for the commission, to the suit brought by Marion Loar, Garrett county school teacher, who claimed redress for damages allegedly suffered when her auto struck a pile of debris on a road located on the Savage river dam site.

Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr. represented the plaintiff, W. Earle Coby, co-counsel with William C. Walsh and George W. Legge argued the demurrer in circuit court for the commission.

Medical Officers Will Blood-Type State Guardsmen

Lt. Col. William P. Lane, Jr., and Staff Will Review Units Tonight

Officers and enlisted men of Companies C and D of the Maryland State Guard will be blood-typed this evening at the state armory, it was announced yesterday by Capt. Thomas F. Conlon.

The 150 men of the two local units will be typed by Major Howard W. Yeager, surgeon of Eighth Medical and Sgt. Hans, battalion medical sergeant. They will be assisted by Capt. W. Oliver McLane, Jr., John K. Rozum and C. C. Zimmerman, and medical units of each detachment.

To Review Companies

Lt. Col. William Preston Lane, Jr., of Hagerstown, battalion commander; Capt. Diehl and Capt. Stottelmyer, of Companies A and B, Hagerstown; Lieut. Miller and Townshead, Hagerstown, and Capt. J. Vincent Jamison, III, of the Headquarters platoon, Eighth Battalion, also will come here this evening to review both local companies of the State Guard between 8 and 10 p. m. in the state armory.

Officers of the Eighth Battalion will discuss the invitation received by the Seventh and Eighth battalions for holding maneuvers at Camp Ritchie, Cascade, Md., the week of August 2 to 9.

Will "Muster In" Units

Adjutant General Francis Petrot, Lt. Col. E. Brooke Lee and Lt. Col. Lane are scheduled to come here Friday to "muster in" five companies of the Maryland Minute Men at the state armory at 7:30 p. m. The companies that have complied with all the regulations are:

Company No. 1—West Side, J. Philip Roman, captain; Company No. 2—South End, Joe Ansel, captain; Company No. 3—East Side, Polson Taylor, captain; Company No. 4—North End, Robert Seefeld, captain; and Company No. 5—LaVale and Eilerslie, Merrill Golden, captain.

Miss Martha Keller Dies at Her Home; Was 74 Years Old

Operated Virginia Avenue Grocery Store for Many Years

Funeral services will be held Thursday for Miss Martha Resaca Keller, 74, member of an early Cumberland family, who died at 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning at her home, 420 South Cedar street. She was known throughout South Cumberland as "Zeck."

Miss Keller, a daughter of the late Joseph J. and Harriet A. Crowl, of Bedford county, Pa., operated a grocery store on Virginia avenue for many years and in 1909 supervised construction on Virginia avenue of the first large concrete block building in Cumberland. She was active in civic affairs and well read on national and international events.

Before and during the Civil war, Miss Keller's father operated a store on Baltimore street where Ford's drug store now stands, and catered to Union troops stationed here.

Although Miss Keller was unmarried, she reared the six children of her sister-in-law after their mother's death in 1921.

Surviving are two brothers, George T. and William C. Keller, Cumberland; four nephews and two nieces, Melvin C., James P., Ross G. and Alfred C. Keller, and Mrs. Bessie R. Rider and Mrs. Della F. Triganopolis, all of Cumberland.

The body was taken to the home of Mrs. Rider, 421 Springdale street, where it will remain until time of the funeral in Holy Cross Episcopal church, of which she was a member. Interment will be in Rose Hill cemetery.

Decision Reversed in Insurance Suit over Broadwater Fatality

Court of Appeals Holds Policy Holder Must Co-operate with Company

Regarded as an important decision, and one of the first of its kind in Maryland, the Maryland court of appeals has reversed a judgment obtained in Circuit Court here against the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company in the accidental death of Henry Broadwater by an automobile truck. The insurance company appealed the judgment contending that a change of statement by the insured, constituted a lack of co-operation, and therefore voided the insurance policy. The court held that the contradiction by the insured in his statement and in his testimony showed a lack of co-operation.

HEADS JAYCEES—Jack L. Towler, newly elected president of the Junior Association of Commerce, said yesterday he plans to extend an invitation to all members to volunteer for service on various committees to be appointed for the new fiscal year. Towler is a charter member of the organization, is also a member of Rotary Club and Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O. Elks.

Employment File Is Highest Here in Three Years

War Industries Job Seekers Increase Registrations to 3,766 Persons

Registration for employment in war industries have increased to such an extent that the active file at the Cumberland office of the United States Employment Service in the Public Safety building now contains 3,766 names, the highest number on record since 1939, according to Daniel R. Staley, manager.

Shows Steady Growth

Staley said that the active file has shown a steady growth since the first of the year. There were 2,200 names on file January 1; 2,359 on February 1; 2,681 on March 1; 2,887 on April 1, and 3,121 on May 1. The 3,766 persons registered on June 1, included 2,191 men and 1,575 women, and represented a gain of 1,966 over the number on file at the start of the year.

The local office made a total of 352 placements in private industry last month, the highest since July, 1941, when 353 placements were made.

Eight hundred employment registration forms have been distributed throughout the county to high school graduates and a number of these already have been filled out and returned for filing at the office.

Must Keep Cards Active

Staley urges all high school graduates who have not received forms to visit the employment office and register during the month of June. Those already registered are required to keep their card active every thirty days if they are interested in obtaining employment.

Fifty-five registrations were recorded at the local office Monday. Staley stated, and added that heretofore this figure represented a week's registration. He estimated that 5,000 persons will be needed for work in the war industries of this area and stressed the importance of filing applications in preparation for the call for workers.

File 4,200 Questionnaires

The board has received 4,200 occupational questionnaires from the four local draft boards and is now engaged in classifying them into critical, essential and other occupations. This process, Staley pointed out, makes available valuable information in connection with war industries.

A total of 5,800 occupational questionnaires were distributed among the 35 to 45 and the 20 to 21 age groups at the registration in the schools recently. After being checked by the draft boards, the questionnaires are returned to the employment office in 100-card lots for filing.

Child Slightly Injured

Carol Ann Hinkson, 18 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hinkson, 419 Grand avenue, was treated in Memorial hospital last night for a slight cut on her lip, suffered when she was struck by the rear fender of an automobile near her home. No report of the accident was made to the police.

Community Chest Drive Ends $3,638 Short of Goal

$53,634 Is Collected; Only One Section Raises Quota

Cumberland's seventeenth annual Community Chest drive fell $3,638 short of the goal of $57,272.77, it was announced at campaign headquarters last night after returns from the last report were audited.

The campaign officially ended Friday but when the total subscriptions were more than $5,000 short of the goal workers voted to continue their solicitations until 4 p. m. yesterday.

From the time the noon report was made Friday until final returns were made yesterday, a total of $1,514 was collected. Figures released at headquarters show the drive came within six per cent of reaching the goal with pledges or cash payments amounting to $53,634.38.

Special gifts section was the only group to reach its quota, subscriptions totaling $32,261 as compared to a goal of $32,100.

The other three sections fell short of their quotas, classified reporting $14,591.39 or 86.4 per cent of a goal of $16,900; National Firms turned in $2,450 or 80.7 per cent of a goal of $3,000 and the Women's section reported $4,331.99 or 78.6 per cent of a goal of $5,500.

Five of the fourteen divisions in the Classified section subscribed their totals and three others came within ten per cent of goals. In the women's section, none reached the goal although one division returned ninety-eight per cent of its quota.

Campaign officials pointed out, however, that anyone who was not solicited might contribute by bringing money or subscription to the Community Chest office in the Liberty Trust building.

PICTURES OF WILD LIFE ARE SHOWN AT ROTARY LUNCHEON

Rotarians were entertained with motion pictures and stereoscopic views of wild life yesterday at their weekly luncheon in Fort Cumberland hotel by Robert B. Ford, lecturer and photographer of Homestead, Pa.

Most of the views were of deer, bear, owls, snakes and eagles of Pennsylvania, in the photographing of which Ford has specialized for many years. Views of wild life elsewhere on the continent were also shown.

Traveling with a portable electric light plant and numerous automatic devices, Ford was able to get many views of the animals and birds in their natural habitats, and as they are when they think no human being is around.

Many of the pictures exhibited have been published in magazines and newspapers.

Orchestra Leader, Who Appeared Here, Dies in New York

Bunny Berigan, 33, nationally-known trumpet player, who appeared with his orchestra at the Maryland theater on April 8, died yesterday at Polytechnic hospital, New York city, where he was taken after suffering from an intestinal disturbance.

News of Berigan's death appeared in an Associated Press dispatch from New York city.

Berigan played the trumpet with a number of big name bands prior to organizing his own orchestra.

Buses Will Use Slower Schedules To Conserve Rubber

Second Change in Trip Time Is Announced within a Month

Blue Ridge buses began operating on slower schedules at midnight last night in an effort to conserve tires and equipment. It was the second change increasing travel time between cities within the last month.

Each schedule between Cumberland and Baltimore has been lengthened by about fifteen minutes but no trips have been eliminated nor have any new runs been added.

Speed limit of the buses were reduced from fifty to forty miles an hour on May 10 and an official of the company said last night the speed limit will remain at forty miles an hour. Trips, however, will be slowed down, particularly on the mountains east and west of Cumberland, the official added.

All buses now will descend mountains in a lower gear than before in an effort to save brakes, it was explained, and travel time will be a few minutes longer in daylight than at night since tires wear faster on hot roads.

By slowing down the schedules it is anticipated that buses can be used more frequently since they will not be subject to as much wear and tear as before and can be returned to service from garages more quickly.

There may be a slight adjustment of schedules by July 1, the official said, but it is not expected that all trips will be affected at that time.
